K. C. Star For Sale
About Big Business
Does It Worry You
A Puzzled Countess

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1926, by Star Co.

COLONEL NELSON'S daughter is dead, and now, under the terms of Nelson's will, the Kansas City Star that he created, must be sold.

When Nelson was alive, and since, under the management of his son-in-law, and his daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kirkwood, you could not have bought an editorial column in the Kansas City Star, to change its policy, on a public question for a million dollars.

Now the entire paper, including the editorial page, is for sale.

THE STAR is powerful over several States. Some big railroad, grain, banking and packing combination might think it worth while "to take it in." The trouble is that a newspaper "taken in" by high finance is apt to take sick and die. High finance selects as editor "one of our kind," and that kind can't run a newspaper. The question would bother Nelson if he were here. He was a good American and would not like the power he created to get into the wrong hands.

THIS WRITER remembers Nelson as he came up from his basement pressroom in his shirt sleeves to interview "the young Eastern capitalist building a 7-story brick 'skyscraper' at the corner of 7th and Delaware, and another on Ninth street, near Wyandotte."

Nelson didn't dream that he was building a newspaper destined to be worth millions of dollars. Everything that Nelson had, newspapers, money, stocks, lands, now that his wife and only daughter are dead, goes to Kansas City where he got his start. Nelson was a good American, courageous, honest and grateful. Therefore, he was able to build a powerful newspaper.

DOES THE growth of big business worry you? Consider the automobile business which is certainly BIG.

Five hundred different kind of automobiles have disappeared from the market within 25 years.

In 1922, 86 different makes of cars were shown in the national automobile show. In 1923, 66 makes; only 57 in 1924, and in the last show only 50.

WHAT HAVE been the results of concentrating the automobile business in fewer hands? Detroit automobile makers at this moment employ 60,000 more men, at high wages, than they did in the same week last year.

The output of cars is steadily increasing, prices are lower than ever. Ford, the biggest maker, and perhaps the richest man in the world, sells more cars than all other automobile makers put together, and sells at the lowest prices.

Business must be big, and bigness should be encouraged by the government, watched and controlled by the people.

If they haven't brains enough for that, they wouldn't have enough to control little business.

'MASTER MIND' HUNTED AS ATLANTIC NATIONAL MAN IS HELD BY U. S.

Charged with embezzlement of $7,381 from the Atlantic National Bank, Francis P. Emerson, twenty-five year old, a clerk at the bank, was arrested today at his home, No. 10 Crowell street, Dorchester.

The arrest was made by Deputy U. S. Marshal James Fraser on a secret indictment returned by the Federal Grand Jury.

The Federal authorities are searching for another man, prominent in Boston and Cambridge, who is alleged to be the "master mind" in the embezzlement. Because of his prominence it is not believed he has fled but deputy marshals could not find him at his home or place of business.

Emerson is also of a well-known family. When he was placed under arrest in his home he bade a sad farewell to his young wife and small child before going to Federal District Court with Deputy Marshal Fraser for arraignment.

The embezzlements, according to U. S. District Attorney Harold P. Williams, were made through three forged checks, one for $500 last May 5, another for $5,681 on May 8, and the third for $1,200 on January 6 of this year.

Emerson is said to have obtained

GRAND JURY TO PROBE CHARGES OF GOODWIN

The Suffolk County Grand Jury will investigate certain of the charges brought by Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin.

This was admitted today by Atty. Gen. Jay R. Benton, following Goodwin's sharp attack on judges, district attorneys, professional bondsmen and others in an address at the Old South Meeting House.

The Attorney-General did not specify what cases would be brought before the investigating body, but he said: "Certain of the cases reported to me by Mr. Goodwin and certain of those reported by Police Commissioner Wilson will be given over to the Grand Jury for investigation. Others will be treated in a different fashion."

So widespread are the Goodwin

GAS INJURES SEVEN AT HAVERHILL FIRE

Haverhill, March 1.—Seven firemen were overcome by gas fumes, one of them being rescued unconscious from the cellar, and 16 persons were driven out when fire early today damaged the two-story wooden tenement at No. 23 Pecker street.

Fire Chief Hawkins sent in a general alarm soon after he reached the scene, when gas hampered the work of the fight-fighters.

Theodore Vanier, an occupant of a first floor apartment, discovered the fire when he was awakened by a crackling within the wall. His warnings to other occupants were heard by Ruth Ferguson, a sixteen-year-old girl, who lives across the street, and after hurriedly dressing she sounded an alarm from a nearby box.

Arthur Easterbrook, a fireman, was burned on the right hand while fighting the fire on a ladder on the south side of the building. After treatment at the scene of the fire he was sent back to quarters.

Hoseman Maurice Burrill and Harry Kelley were ordered by the chief to disconnect gas connections in the cellar. Donning gas masks they successfully turned off all connections, but not before Burrill was overcome by the fumes.

Kelley having completed his task

MOTHER OF NEWLY BORN BABY DIVES OUT HOSPITAL 3D STORY

Obsessed with a fear that her baby was to be taken away from her, Mrs. Roland D. Mahoney of Warren street, Allston, dived to her death from a building of the New England Hospital for Women in Roxbury within a few hours after birth of the infant.

In her frantic plunge the mother took sash and all through the window. Her body, clad only in a night gown, struck first an iron railing and then crumpled on the flagstones of a walk.

By one nurse at the hospital it was declared that she attempted to seize up the infant and dive to death with it, but this was denied by two other nurses.

Mrs. Mahoney entered the New England Hospital for Women, Columbus avenue, a few days ago.

She was assigned to a room on the third floor of the Sewall Maternity building, and her baby, a boy, was born yesterday.

After the birth of a baby, it was explained today by Superintendent Catton of the hospital, some women fear, when the baby is taken from them to the nursery, that it is being taken away forever, the obsession being peculiar to the condition.

It evidently was this fear that prompted Mrs. Mahoney to dive through the window, according to Miss Catton, as the new mother had expressed some such apprehension.

3 MAINE RUM PROBES ON IN BIG DIVORCE SUIT

Augusta, Me., March 1.—A little domestic tiff between an angered husband and wife had puffed out today until county, State and Federal officers were scurrying around in three separate investigations of wild midnight parties—and then some.

Even though the divorce suit brought by Eugene L. LaBar was admitted today to be on the point of settlement out of court, the probe went forward.

They included:

1.—Investigation by County officials of alleged dancing by unclad women, and Roman love scenes and some not quite so Roman.

2.—Investigation by State officers of alleged criminal revels tend

COVER 37 WITH GUNS; STEAL $40,000 IN FURS

New York, March 1 (I.N.S.).—Nine armed thugs, some masked, held up the fur factory of Applebaum & Cohn in Brooklyn today, cowering the proprietors and 35 employes and escaped with approximately $40,000 worth of furs, which they loaded upon a motor truck.

The gang was led by a tall young man, wearing a fashionably-cut gray suit. He distributed his eight confederates in various parts of the three-story factory building, calmly testing the fur pieces and selecting only the most valuable.

The robber chief entered the private office of William Cohn, one of the owners, posing as a salesman for motor trucks. He reached for a "business card" and produced a revolver.

"Bequiet or get hurt," he advised Cohn.

Cohn and his employes were then lined up and held under guard, while the gang methodically robbed the factory.

Louisville, Ky., March 1 (A.P.).—Herman Hamburger, 28, New York jewelry salesman, was robbed of jewels valued at approximately $100,000 today while on the way to a local jewelry store. Hamburger said he was accosted by a man and asked for a match. Before he could reply two other men slugged him from behind.

CHINESE SHOT. POLICE HUNT CAMBRIDGE TONG

Scohoo Dea Hoye, 18-year-old Chinese youth, was dying at Cambridge Municipal Hospital today as a result of a bullet wound suffered in a laundry at No. 107 River street, Cambridge.

The police, investigating to determine whether Hoye was a victim of Tong gunmen, were told by Hong Hou, proprietor of the laundry, he returned from the bank and found Hoye, his guest, lying in a pool of blood.

Beside him was Hou's revolver.

ing to fracture the peace of the sovereign State, etc.

3.—Investigation by Federal officers of the source of the wines and whiskies alleged to have been consumed at parties, the charge being made that most of them were taken from confiscated liquors stored in the county jail.

NOTABLES INVOLVED.

According to certain investigating officials today, the probe already has drawn in a former high office holder in a State department—and while his name stands out lonesomely at present, it will have plenty of distinguished company.

Admittedly today, according to probing officers, the LaBar divorce suit has had a "crusher" put upon it by prominent men who shied at the inevitable disclosures that a court trial would bring.

That was the intimation of officials conducting three separate investigations into the alleged activities of a highly organized rum ring comprising prominent local personages and alleged orgies, in which it is declared, some of the women present danced "in the altogether."

Seeking a divorce on statutory grounds and cruel and abusive treatment, LaBar, who is 57 years old, filed papers on Tuesday in Kennebec County Probate Court, naming Lawrence G. Purington, wealthy coal merchant, as co-respondent.

The following day, Sheriff Henry F. Cummings of Kennebec County petitioned the Probate Court to name a guardian for LaBar, alleging that he was of unsound mind and incompetent to handle his own affairs. The hearing on this is scheduled for March 22.

LaBAR TO FIGHT.

Claiming that obscure but powerful persons are trying to prove him of unsound mind in order to prevent the divorce case going to trial, which would disclose evidence of a serious nature against them, LaBar said he would fight the petition with every energy.

He retained the firm of Pattangal, Lock and Perkins to represent him. They would not discuss the case, but intimated that investigators in their employ have sufficient evidence to disprove the unsound mind allegation.

Meanwhile, the common topic of gossip in this usually conservative city centres around the LaBar case. Not even the Kirby murder excited the city as much as this affair has.

While Federal investigators are confining their inquiries to the rumselling activities of certain persons nd mysterious pilfering of the unty's confiscated liquor stock, mprising fine Scotch, old rye and hoice, wines, county and State [illegible]orities are interrogating wit[illegible]es in connection with alleged [illegible]ies.

HAME "BATHTUB" PARTY.

According to these officials, several parties were given weekly for the past five years, during which women of questionable character appeared in various Oriental dances while entirely unclothed. The other guests, many of whom included personages and their wives representing the elite of the city, authorities allege, quaffed whiskey and wines until the early hours of the morning.

As a result of all these revelations many civic and social leagues are up in arms and have organized to bring to light every detail of the case and to punish officials and others responsible.

BOMB IN FIRE EXPLODES; 12 FIREMEN NEAR DEATH

Chicago, March 1 (A.P.)—Twelve firemen, fighting a blaze in a frame building on the South Side today, missed death by a few seconds when a trembling of the two-story structure warned them to the street just before an explosion blew the structure into kindling wood. The blast, believed to have been caused by a dynamite bomb, splintered every timber in the house, shattered neighborhood windows and showered roofs and streets with charred or burning particles. Mike Castelli, owner of a grocery in the building, reputed to be wealthy, recently received extortion threats.

charges that all sorts of rumors flitted from State House to courthouse and police headquarters following this announcement today.

In his address at the historic meeting house Goodwin charged that some judges abused their discretionary powers and that the system of placing cases on file, probation, continuances and stays of execution all are responsible for the lax administration of justice in Massachusetts.

Frequently during his talk on "What's Wrong With Our Law Enforcement" the registrar emphasized the statement: "Punish the second offender."

"The courts," he said, "are in many cases responsible for the thugs on our streets and highways because of continuance and filed cases.

"A man who is criminally inclined has every reason to believe that he has a license to commit crime if he has political pull."

Gov. Smith to Ask Crime-Curbing Laws

Albany, N. Y., March 1 (I.N.S.).—Governor Smith, it was learned today, will send a special message to the Legislature this week recommending the creation of a special commission to draft legislation with the view of curbing crime.

The Republican legislative leaders are in accord with the Governor on this proposal, and it is expected a resolution will be introduced this week calling for the creating of a special crime investigation commission. The commission will report to the 1927 Legislature.

The investigation is expected to result in a drastic change in the State's probation and parole system and a revision of the criminal laws.

A special legislative committee which has been studying crime and its prevention, is about to submit its report. It is expected to recommend a score of bills to amend the State's penal code.

$150,000 New York Fire

Beacon, N. Y., March 1 (A.P.).—The State Theatre and five apartments were destroyed by fire today. Ten families were driven from their homes. Two firemen were hurt. The loss was $150,000.

Pastor Praises Press as Great Power for Good

Fitchburg, March 1.—The Rev. C. Wendell Wilson, pastor of the Highland Baptist Church, preached a sermon in which he praised the newspapers, declaring that he does not know what the world would be but for the revelations given daily in the press.

"Today we hear a lot of people finding fault with the newspapers by stating that they are not telling the truth and are printing many things that are injurious.

"After careful consideration of the matter I must admit that our daily newspapers are giving to the public facts largely beyond any false statements, but in the main are things an intelligent public ought to be posted upon."

ASKS BOARD TO STUDY DRY LAW

Washington, March 1 A.P.).—Creation of a commission to study the general prohibition question in all its aspects was proposed today by Assistant Secretary Andrews of the Treasury Department, in charge of dry law enforcement.

With Both Senate and House preparing to take steps to inquire into prohibition, and with wet and dry organizations engaged in bitter controversy over it, Mr. Andrews declared he believed the time had come for a thorough study of the question in its economic, social and other phases.

Unwilling to make an estimate of the various effects of the law himself, the secretary declared that if enforcement was to proceed with success some action must be taken to quiet the public mind.

WOMEN OUT TO FOIL 'MAN TRUST' AT THE POLLS

Old Orchard, Me., March 1 (A.P.).—Old Orchard women are going to the polls today at the annual town meeting with the purpose of ousting male incumbents from town offices.

When the time came for making up the slate, men of both parties got together and agreed upon a ticket satisfactory to both. Under their plan election was to be a mere formality. But they reckoned without the women.

The women allowed that "mere man" was all right for heading fire fighters and as chief of the fire department, but that it needed the finesse of the gentle sex to manage the town's financial affairs. They put out a ticket of their own with women as candidates, and so the battle of ballots is on.

Five other firemen, Courtland Frost, Russell Noyes, Herbert Kaulbach, Early Hardy, and Clifton Hoyt were overcome by gas fumes and sent back to quarters.

The occupants driven to the streets included Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Vanier and their children, Wilfred, Alice, Ora, and Thomas, who occupied the first floor on the south side of the house. The second floor is unoccupied.

On the north side of the house the first floor is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James Sullivan and their children, Margaret, Harold, Albader and Catherine. While the second floor is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kimball and their children, Phyllis and Florence.

According to fire officials, the fire was caused by an overheated chimney on the north side of the house, and the damage was estimated by Fire Chief Hawkins at $2,500.

State Income Tax Returns Must Be in Tonight

The State income tax curfew rings tonight at midnight. If by that time citizens of the Commonwealth have not filed their income tax returns they are liable to fines, and all the annoyances which accompany the collecting of unpaid bills.

Two weeks from today the Federal income tax returns are due.

Shenandoah Expert Hit by Navy's 'Revenge'

TOMS RIVER, N. J., March 1.—Captain Anton Heinen, German dirigible expert, brought to this country to supervise construction of the lost Shenandoah, is working here for $6 a day as an assistant surveyor, because, he declared today:

"Jealousy and persecution on the part of officers of the Navy Department made it impossible for me to hold my position.

"I told the truth about the Shenandoah disaster. As a result I have been dropped.

"With all openings in the government service closed to me because of this jealousy, I was without means of support. Now I am carrying a surveyor's transit on my shoulder and glad to get the money. I need it.

"When I took the job my family was practically destitute. Washington officialdom had decided to punish me just as they decided to punish Colonel Mitchell. When the bureaucrats were unable to close our mouths they planned to take away our means of earning a living. They succeeded."

1 DEAD, 1 DYING IN FALLS

Mrs. Esta Barrett, 75, of No. 41 Concord square, South End, was found unconscious at the foot of a flight of stairs in her home today. The aged woman was found by her husband, who called the police. City Hospital surgeons hold out little hope for recovery.

Walter J. Bright, 50, died at City Hospital from a fractured skull suffered when he was stricken suddenly ill and fell on the stone steps of the Boston Y. M. C. A., Huntington avenue.

SAFE-CRACKERS TAKE $520 IN WORCESTER

Worcester, March 1.—The safe in the office of the Worcester County Dairy System, Inc., milk depot at No. 17 East Worcester street, was forced by thugs today and $520 was taken.

The thieves gained entrance by forcing a door on the first floor and knocked off the dial from the safe with a sledge hammer. They then broken the outer door and chiselled through the inner door to the cash box. The break was discovered by drivers of the company.

HUNTS POISONS IN BABY'S BODY

Augusta, Me., Mar. 1.—Several persons will be grilled by the authorities if poison tests being conducted today on food eaten by the baby of Mrs. Cecil Davis of Oakland, just before its death give positive results.

The State authorities are prepared to question all who are known to have been in a position to place poison in the infant's food.

The tests were to be brought to an end by feeding the food to a guinea pig. Analyses of the food in an effort to detect the presence of arsenic, phosphorous or bichloride of mercury failed to give results, and State Pathologist J. C. Campbell decided upon the guinea pig test.

"I will be satisfied with the finding of Dr. Campbell," Mrs. Davis, a pretty bobbed haired girl of seventeen, declared.

"In asking for an autopsy and examination of the organs of my baby, I have done what any mother would do when there is a possibility that some jealous person killed my child.

"I am not seeking vengeance, but I surely feel that it is a mother's right to seek justice for her child. My conscience will be clear after the mystery is cleared."

CHAMBERLAIN DEFIES CRITICS

London, March 1 (I.N.S.).—Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Minister, refused to back down on his insistence that Great Britain shall not fix a definite policy with regard to enlargement of the League of Nations council.

He has threatened to resign if Great Britain makes a definite stand before the League meeting.

"I do not think the interests of peace and international good will be increased by saying what we will do at the next League meeting," Sir Austen said. "I don't see how we can ever come to an agreement if any of us announces our policy beforehand and are unwilling to make concessions."

Charging that Sir Austen had already tentatively committed himself to support the demand of Poland, Spain and Brazil for seats on the League council, there is a demand from six members of the Cabinet that the British policy be fixed before Sir Austen goes to Geneva, and if it is fixed in support of enlargement of the council these six Cabinet members are ready to resign.

SINN FEIN SPLIT OVER TAKING SEATS IN DAIL

Dublin, March 1 (A.P.)—Whether Irish Republicans should take their seats in the Dail and Ulster Parliaments will be decided at a meeting of Sinn Fein March 9. Demonstration Feared Over Bimba Verdict Tomorrow

TWO LOCAL FACTIONS BITTER

Extra Guards Ordered at the Courthouse When Judge Renders Decision

Brockton, March 1.—Fearing a demonstration whether Anton Bimba, radical editor and lecturer, is acquitted or convicted in district court here tomorrow, City Marshal Boyden made arrangements today for an increased detail of police at the courthouse.

Judge C. Carroll King will render his decision in the case at 10 o'clock. Any semblance of a demonstration will be suppressed, the police authorities said.

The decision on the charges of blasphemy and sedition were awaited with intense interest, especially by fellow-countrymen of Bimba among the shoeworkers in the Montello district, who are divided in two camps for and against the Brooklyn radical.

Bimba's supporters are chiefly members of the Lithuanian Workers' Educational and Literary Society, while those frankly hoping for his conviction are members of the Lithuanian-American Citizens' Club.

Judge King is to make an oral decision, according to court attaches, and not a written verdict as was expected by some. Bimba, his wife and others prominent in the trial will be present when the verdict is rendere

Should Bimba be found guilty, an appeal to the higher court will be made by Attorny Harry Hoffman, senior defense counsel.

Since thet rial ended the radical has received offers from all over the country to make speeches to mill and factory workers, his adherents delard. Prosecutor I. Manuel Rubin disclosed that he himself has received scores of letters giving voluntary information of Bimba's alleged activities during the past ten years.

BERLIN HEARS TRANS-SEA PHONE TALK WITH U. S.

Berlin, March 1 (I.N.S.).—Duplex trans-Atlantic telephone conversations between London and Rocky Point, R. I., were picked up in Berlin and heard as clearly as any local telephone conversation, it was announced today.

London, March 1.—Serious doubt that wireless telephony between Great Britain and the United States will ever be a commercial success were voiced today by Professor J. A. Fleming, one of England's leading radio experts.

"I do not wish to dampen enthusiasm," said Professor Fleming, "but I should think there would be great difficulty in getting rid of atmospherics and securing the absolute certainty that is essential."

FALLS 50 FEET, ESCAPES DEATH, IN RIGGING UP CHILDREN'S RADIO

Baby Celia Broncetti who saw her father, Joseph Broncetti, fall 50 feet while rigging aerial for the family radio on roof of the four-story apartment at No. 174 Norfolk avenue, Roxbury.

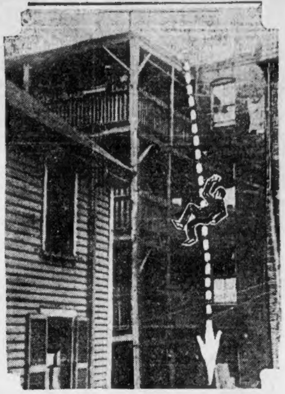

Photo-diagram shows how Broncetti tumbled to the ground, 50 feet, when he slipped on roof of rear piazza and escaped with a few bruises. Clotheslines and light woodwork broke his fall.

Perina Broncetti, nine years old, who with the baby and another child witnessed the perilous drop of their father from the roof of their home and gave the alarm. Perina was all ready for radio reception, equipped with earphones, when the accident occurred in which her daddy escaped death.

Here is the victim himself, Joseph Broncetti. At City Hospital he was pronounced in no danger from the effects of his plunge to the yard. He was bruised about the face and body.

2D MAN HELD IN TIRE THEFT SHOOTING

Police today arrested Matthew Sances of East Seventh street, South Boston, on the suspicion that he is the man who escaped while a policeman was arresting Joseph Carroll, alias Joseph Lawrence, in the Back Bay during a struggle that resulted in the wounding of Herbert Mills, a civilian, as Mills ran to the officer's aid.

Sances was located by Special Officers Lannigan and Barrett of City Point police station from a description of the man who fled while Lawrence was being subdued.

He was arraigned in district court on a charge of larceny of twenty-six automobile "spare" tires, which police say they found in a private garage hired and used by him in M street, South Boston. The authorities declare he admitted dealing in second hand tires, but claimed he purchased them legitimately. He was held in $1,000 bail for a hearing, March 8.

Lawrence, or Carroll, was arraigned today in Municipal court for assault with intent to kill Mills, and was held in $25,000 for a hearing March 8. He pleaded not guilty. Mills, who was shot through the abdomen, in the fight that followed when police surprised Lawrence and his "pal" in the alleged act of stealing a tire at Exeter and Boylston streets, is recovering.

2,000 GARMENT WORKERS END THEIR STRIKE

With 2,000 striking garment workers planning to return to work late today, picketing was continued by other strikers pending a settlement of their difficulties

According to Harry Hochman, vice-president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, all the workers employed by the manufacturers will resume their jobs following a mass meeting in Scenic Auditorium.

After the meeting, according to Mr. Hochman, the 2,000 strikers will march in groups to their shops, where they will take up the duties they dropped last Thursday as a result of settlements reached Saturday.

The operatives employed by contractors and jobbers will remain out until their differences are adjusted. This adjustment is expected within a day or two.

Vice-President Hochman went on picket duty himself today when he was informed that police officers were ordering pickets away from in front of the premises of S. Shapiro & Sons, No. 658½ Washington street.

Ordered to leave the spot, Hochman told the sergeant in command of the police detail he believed he was within his rights, and if the police thought otherwise they could arrest him.

The sergeant returned to the Lagrange street station for instructions, with the result that Captain Goodwin asked Hochman to visit him.

"FAST WORK? WE'LL SAY IT WAS"

Flying a DeHaviland plane in zero temperature that benumbed them, these two officers made a non-stop hop from Dayton, Ohio, to the Boston Airport in 5 hours and 50 minutes. The best previous time for this flight of 725 miles was 7 hours and 35 minutes. Highest speed attained was 125 miles an hour.

'MOON RIDERS' DEMAND $1000 OR HIS LIFE

First a knife, skewered through a "black-hand" note, on his piazza, next a flower basket with a cross cut into it, sent Joseph Buschini, real estate dealer of No. 26 Bellevue street, Dorchester, to the Fields Corner police today.

The basket with the ominous cross in it was deposited before Buschini's door despite the fact that his brother-in-law had been posted as a sentinel to watch all night.

Buschini told the police he went shopping with his wife for only a brief period Saturday night, but when they returned they found a note pinned down to the piazza boards by a keen-pointed table knife.

"Put out $1,000 by nect (misspelled) Saturday night or die like a dog—Moon Riders," it said. The note was on a small, square bit of white paper and had been scrawled in blue pencil.

Neither Buschini nor his wife slept that night, he told the police, and last night he asked his brother-in-law to come over and keep watch all night while the Buschinis slept.

The brother-in-law took up his vigil, but at daylight a flower basket had been taken from its place on the piazza, a cross carved in it, and it had been left before the door.

CLOTHING CONSUMED BY SHEET OF FIRE

Another Child Badly Burned; Fall River Kitchen Only Slightly Damaged

Fall River, March 1.—Burned by a sheet of flame that swept over them from the kitchen range, into which kerosene had been poured for kindling purposes, James Frazer, 30, his wife and their young daughter hovered between life and death today, while doctors fought to save the life of another child.

Hope of saving the lives of Frazer, his wife, Margaret, twenty-nine years old, and four-year-old Margaret, was despaired of even before they arrived at the Fall River General Hospital. Six-year-old William Frazer is expected to live.

The flame with one sweep enveloped the entire family, burned off their clothing in an instant and burned them in every part of their bodies. Then it died out, doing only slight damage to the kitchen wall and floor.

The mother was sitting by the side of the range in their home at No. 25 Smithies street, dressing the boy for school and getting little Margaret ready for her day of play about the house, when the father tried to hasten the kindling of the fire by pouring the kerosene into the grate.

It exploded instantly and the shrieks of the family brought neighbors in the tenement to their suite on the run. The neighbors found all four unconscious, stricken down in the first moment of the blast of flame.

Doctors and firemen were hastily summoned and all four were rushed to the hospital in ambulances, doctors giving first aid treatment on the way. Returning consciousness brought only agonizing pain to the three most severely burned.

CHARGED TWO SUSPECTS HAD BURGLAR'S TOOLS

George Barnet of Essex street, Cambridge, and Stephen Turturici of Fleet street, Boston, in Brighton court today pleaded not guilty to having burglar's tools in their possession and were held for a hearing on March 6. They were arrested by Patrolman Barron, who charged the two men were ringing doorbells on Commonwealth avenue. When searched the men were found to have celluloid strips in their possession, according to the police. These strips are used to force spring locks.

QUIT AT 84? WHY, HE'S JUST STARTED!

Springfield, March 1 (A.P.).—Embrer B. Clark, 84 years, who next Fall will have completed 34 years as sheriff of Hampden County, announced he will be a candidate to succeed himself for a six-year term. His announcement follows failure of a recent move to provide for his retirement on a pension. A legislative committee killed the proposed special act.

Vera has spent some time in New York stores and has added much to her wardrobe during her release, even buying jewelry. (I.N.R. photos.)

IT'S A JOLLY GOOD FIT

The Countess selected many new models on her shopping tour.

Even the latest in fur coats attracted Vera's attention during her visit on Upper Broadway.

New Spring bonnets are very dainty, the Countess said as she bought many.

ARMS PARLEY PLAN NOW IN 'MOTH BALLS'

Death Blow Is Seen in Crisis Faced by Sir Austin Chamberlain

Washington, March 1 (I.N.S.).—The widely-heralded Geneva disarmament conference—which the League of Nations hastened to call when it seemed President Coolidge was on the verge of inviting the powers to Washington—has been packed away in moth balls, so far as this government is concerned.

Having accepted the league's invitation, President Coolidge has tied his own hands in the matter of initiating another conference, and the league members are engaged in so many controversies among themselves that all hope for a conference this year, at least, are believed dead.

The controversy over enlargement of the League's Council, which threatens to cause the resignation of Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Minister, is considered here to have dealt the proposed Geneva conference a death blow.

Washington officialdom attributes the situation to the crafty statesmanship of the French Premier, Aristide Briand, who demands that the council be enlarged to include Poland, France's eastern ally, and that other council seats be "rotated." The net effect would be to insure France a balance of power.

Officials here consider France's action a violation of the pledges given Germany when the Locarno peace pacts were agreed to. Germany entered those pacts on the assurance that she would be taken into the league with a seat on the council with the other major powers.

If Poland is now given a seat, and the council further enlarged so as to permit French domination, diplomats here consider it extremely doubtful if Germany will care to join.

House Passes R. R. Labor Bill

Washington, March 1 (A.P.).—The Watson-Parker bill, to set up new methods of settling railroad labor disputes, was passed today by the House.

STELLAR TALENT SECURED TO ENTERTAIN WOUNDED VETS

MARGARET M. GUINEY. Cambridge girl will assist in entertaining wounded veterans at their hospital.

NAOMI ANDREWS. Nineteen-year-old music student who will dance at the veterans' hospital.

LILLIAN R. WALSH. Dancing instructress who will act as accompianist to all performers.

MARION OGDEN. To interpret various dances at the wounded veterans' show, specializing in the waltz clog.

CHRISTINE ROBINSON AND KAY BARRY. Teammates of Miss Guiney in the "Kay, Kris and Brownie" of operatic stage fame who will do their bit in the Boston Evening American's show for veterans.

Good Talent Signed Up for Boston Evening American Hospital Entertainment

Another excellent show will be conducted in United States Veterans' Hospital, West Roxbury, next Thursday afternoon under the auspices of the Boston Evening American for the World War veterans still recuperating there. These bi-weekly entertainments of this newspaper are real gloom chasers. Ask any of the boys who are there fighting to regain health and they will tell you they look forward with eagerness for each show.

Some good talent has been signed up for this week's entertainment, including 17-year-old Naomi Andrews, premier dancer of the Boston Ballet Concerts Company; Christine Robison, Margaret M. Guiney, Kay Barry, Marion Ogden, Frances Fanning and Lillian Walsh.

Miss Andrews' numbers on Thursday include a classical ballet number, Russian dance and a jazz.

Misses Robison, Barry and Guiney are known on the concert stage as "Kay, Kris and Brownie." Their act is of such a sparkling character that their services are in almost constant demand. It consists of "melody, syncopation and harmony." They use a piano and banjo-ukes as well as their voices to good advantage.

Miss Marion Ogden will be seen in clever dances in which the waltz clog will be featured.

Miss Fanning's South Seas dances are the embodiment of grace.

Miss Walsh, teacher of dancing, will serve as accompanist for all the artists.

TO CUT OUTPUT OF ALCOHOL

New York, Mar. 1 (A.P.).—John A. Foster, recently appointed to take charge of the supervision of the alcohol industry throughout the country, said today that he plans a sweeping cut in the output of alcohol manufactured under Government permit.

It is his aim, he said, to reduce the present output from six million gallons to two millions a year.

Mr. Foster said he would continue his policy, adopted several months ago, of revoking the permits of manufacturers whose alcohol was shown to have been diverted into illegitimate channels.

KIWANIS CLUB TO HOLD "NEWSPAPER DAY" LUNCH

James T. Williams, Jr., editor of the Boston Evening American, will be the principal speaker tomorrow at a Kiwanis Club luncheon in the Boston City Club, designated as "Newspaper Day." Representatives of all daily newspapers in the city have been invited to be present at the luncheon. The "Newspaper Day" luncheon is one of a series of weekly luncheons held by the Kiwanis Club for the purpose of meeting various groups and acquainting them with the Kiwanian movement. President Irvin E. Dierdorff of the club will preside and Editor Williams will be introduced by William K. Bean, chairman of the Kiwanians' publicity committee.

BROKEN RAIL WRECKS N. Y.-ST. LOUIS TRAIN

Greenfield, Ind., March 1 (A.P.).—Passenger train No. 37 of the Pennsylvania Railroad, westbound from New York to St. Louis, was derailed by a broken rail east of here early today. One of its two locomotives and six cars left the tracks. No one was injured.

First With the News When It Is News

First with the news!

First with the pictures!

During the past ten days, the Boston Evening American chalked up another impressive list of scoops and beats, in news and pictures. These were as follows:

February 19.—The Boston Evening American scored a beat with the news of the two train wrecks, at Lowell and Newton, N. H., in which one man was killed and eleven persons injured.

February 20.—The story of General Pershing's son, Warren, back from Paris where he gave up his job repairing automobiles to re-enter Exeter Academy, appeared exclusively in the Boston Evening American.

February 24.—The first story of the revel in Earl Carroll's theatre which was attended by Countess Cathcart, Harry Thaw and others, was in the Boston Evening American, and so was the first news of the attachment on Babe Ruth's farm.

February 25.—Exclusive pictures of John Coolidge in his fighting togs at Amherst and the fellow-student who won from him in the ring, together with John's own account of the fight, were printed in the Boston Evening American.

February 26.—Interview with "Pussyfoot" Johnson appeared only in the Boston Evening American.

February 27.—Disclosures of the Le Bar divorce suit, with its attendant charges of gay parties involving men and women high in social and public life of Maine, was a Boston Evening American scoop.

MARCH LAMB TO HANG ON

March arrived like a lamb, with a weak bleat at that, and the weather man foresees nothing alarming for the coming forty-eight hours.

Rain is predicted for tonight, after a generally cloudy day, and a slight drop in temperature is due for Tuesday. A storm of considerable intensity is moving east-northeastward from the Lake Huron region, but it was expected to cause only little trouble in New England.

While Boston enjoyed mild weather, however, storm warnings for a southwest gale were posted from Delaware Breakwater to Eastport, Me. Fair, weather and northwest breezes were forecast for Greater Boston after this evening's expected showers.

Only six entirely fair days were recorded by the local weather bureau during February, with four days of cloudy skies and eighteen of rain. The temperatures averaged 27.8 degrees above zero, one degree above normal averages for the month.

PICNICS ON UNKNOWN'S TOMB CHARGED IN SENATE

Washington, March 1 (I.N.S.).—Aroused by stories that the tomb of the unknown soldier, America's national shrine to her World War dead, has been subjected to indignities by visiting tourists, Senator Fess of Ohio today launched a campaign to erect a monument on the spot and an enclosure around the tomb.

Fess' bill calls for an appropriation of $50,000.

The stories which prompted Fess' action were that tourists have sat on the flat marble tomb to eat picnic luncheons and posed upon the top of it to take photographs.

$40,500 IN RHODE ISLAND WATER SUITS

Newport, R. I., March 1.—Several suits, for amounts totaling $40,500, arising from the condemnation of property on both sides of Bradford road in Portsmouth, R. I., to protect the water supply at the naval coaling station at Melville, has been filed in the United States District Court. The damages sought for being deprived of the right to take water from the brook which runs through the land, are as follows: Mary C. Hall of Cranston, $7,000; George P. Hall and wife, Lillian J. Hall, also of Cranston, $18,000; Annie L. Hall of Portsmouth, $7,000; heirs of Benjamin Hall, Jr., deceased, $7,000; Benjamin Hall, 2nd., $1,000, and Ruel F. Pimental, $500.

ATTY. CRAPO IS DEAD AT 95

The last of the old school of barristers, William W. Crapo, of New Bedford, is dead in his ninety-sixth year, and his passing today called up memories of many famous cases in which he was engaged during his long legal life.

The aged man was known as the "first citizen of New Bedford," where he had lived always, despite the work that took him to all parts of the country.

Son of a former Governor of Michigan, Attorney Crapo succeeded his parent as president of the Flint & Pere Marquette Railroad. Later he was city solicitor of New Bedford, a member of the Legislature back in 1857, member of Congress, president and director of a number of banks, including the International Trust Company of Boston, and mill trustee.

One of the most famous cases with which he was connected was in the collection of the "Alabama claims" growing out of the destruction of New Bedford ships during the Civil War.

He was also a member of the Congressional Committee that investigated the result of the contest between Hayes and Tilden for the presidency.

During his later years he was much interested in historical matters and presented New Bedford with a heroic statue commemorating the deeds of New Bedford's ancient whalemen.

Attorney Crapo was a graduate of Yale and of the Harvard Law School before it had that name.

"LADY LUCK" DEALS "HAND OF DEATH" TO GAMBLER

Berlin, March 1 (I.N.S.).—Max Nivelli, a well-known film producer, died today, a victim of "Lady Luck." Nivelli was playing a game of chance when he reaped heavy winnings. His excitement caused apoplexy.

MILLER, SON OF NOTED ACTOR, ADDICT

Morphine Has Torn His Soul Asunder, He Says in California Court

Los Angeles, March 1 (Universal).—Morphine has torn asunder the soul of Henry J. Miller, Jr., son of one of America's foremost tragedians.

This, the son of the notable actor, admitted as his tears fell upon the barren table in the prisoners' docket at the county jail. He had been arrested by Federal narcotic agents as a "dope" addict.

Henry J. Miller, Jr., has been "on it" for the past six years, according to his own admissions at the county jail.

There was a time, years ago, when Henry J. Miller, Jr., had a brilliant future behind the footlights.

"I was making $200 a week then," he said. "I wasn't a star yet, but I was leading man for several of the greatest actresses."

Then came domestic troubles, and Henry J. Miller, Jr., attempted suicide. That was in 1915, but he will not discuss it.

The bullet lodged in his spine. It is still there. Six years ago he sought relief in a major operation. He was in the hospital for several weeks. To alleviate the pain, surgeons gave him morphine injections.

FUEL OIL RUNS SHORT; FREIGHTER IS TOWED IN

New York, March 1 (A.P.).—Her fuel oil supply exhausted by days of delay in fighting heavy seas, the freighter Oak Springs, was towed into port today by two coast guard cutters. The vessel, a United States Shipping Board boat, operated by the Black Diamond Line, left Antwerp with fuel enough for a voyage under normal conditions, but had to send out a call for aid Saturday morning while 155 miles off Ambrose Light.

England Declines Invitation

London, March 1 (A.P.).—Great Britain will not participate in the Philadelphia Sesqui-centennial Exposition. The government felt compelled to decline the invitation on the grounds of time and national economy, Parliament was told.

Toronto or Honolulu

Augusta, Me., March 1 (A.P.)—Toronto or Honolulu will get the next biennial meeting of the World Federation of Education Association in July, 1927, it has been decided by D. Augustus O. Thomas, president of the federation and commissioner of education for Maine.

HUB BABY MAY SHARE VAST FORTUNE

A frayed document, yellow with age, discovered in an old Dutch attic may hold wealth untold for brown-eyed Olga Bogardus, year-old baby of a Boston police officer.

A bitter legal fight to obtain his share of $6,000,000,000—the very heart of New York city, formerly owned by a member of Holland's royal family, has been started by Patrolman William H. Bogardus of No. 323 Hyde Park avenue, Hyde Park.

This fortune, which is so large to be almost beyond figures of reckoning, may establish in kin little Olga and Queen Wilhelmina, ruler of the Netherlands.

According to Patrolman Bogardus, an officer at Station 4, he is the sixth in descent of Anneke Bogardus, Dutch princess, and founder of the vast legacy. It is her will, recently uncovered in Gap, Penn., which leaves the land upon which Wall street, Trinity Church, and the Equitable Building is built, to her heirs.

Olga's mother will go this week to Gotham with Judge William A. Day and institute legal proceedings to gain possission of their share of the wealth. Although the estate has been in dispute for many years the will had never been found and contests failed.

"I can remember my grandfather playing about on the banks of the Hudson River," says Bogardus. "He used to tell me of the days when our family were rich and powerful. I have many bits of evidence to back my claim."

FLORIDA SCENE IS FILMED

Palm Beach and other gay atmospheres generally described as the playgrounds of the wealthy and unoccupied, is the locale of Irene Rich's latest release, "The Pleasure Buyers," now at the Olympia.

It is adapted from the Arthur Somers Roche story and not only preserves the suspense of the original tale, but it also manages to introduce some brand new twists of its own. Being a mystery yarn of the most intricate nature, it contrives to implicate practically all the members of the cast at some time or other and the audience is completely mystified until the finale occurs to put the pieces of the puzzle together. Supporting Miss Rich are Clive Brook, June Marlowe, Charles Conklin, Frank Campeau and Don Alvarado.

The vaudeville bill is headed by a rapid-fire comedy singing and dancing sextette who present a musical revue called "Twists and Twirls." Another bright act is "Karter's Comedians," a funny novelty titled, "The Thief of Bad Gags."

MRS. GEORGE B. POST, JR., WINS DIVORCE IN PARIS

Paris, March 1 (A.P.).—A divorce has been granted to Mrs. George B. Post, Jr., of New York City, the former Irene Langhorne Gibson, daughter of Charles Dana Gibson and niece of Lady Astor. The suit was filed on February 15. The couple were married April 27, 1916. Mrs. Doris Mather Briggs was given a divorce from George Briggs, whom she married April 14, 1909, in Rhode Island. A decree was also granted Mr. Wilton Winans Freeman, Jr., of New York and Cincinnati.

HEAD POPS THROUGH 'ROOF' AS TROLLEY HITS AUTO

Hundreds of pedestrians on Huntington avenue today thought they were seeing a movie comic when there came a crash and then a man's head broke through the roof of the flivver he was driving and appeared above the top of the car.

But it was no joke to Patrick F. McMahon of No. 69½ Boylston street, Jamaica Plain. He had turned left from Huntington avenue into Garrison street from behind an inbound trolley and was struck by an outbound surface car.

He was taken to the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in a mail truck and several stitches were taken in his scalp.

3 LAWRENCE BOYS EMULATE 'ELIZA'

Lawrence, March 1.—Three Lawrence High School boys, floating rapidly down the Merrimack river on a large cake of ice, were rescued by police and firemen today. The boys had lost the improvised paddles with which they had propelled the ice cake from a spot near Central Bridge out into the stream.

Joseph Symocil, 17 years old, of No. 30 Chestnut street, and his companion, named Britka, were two of the lads. The third boy disappeared in the huge crowd which gathered near the Pacific Print plant, to watch the rescue. The firemen of Ladder 5, aided by police, hurled a rope to the trio and they were hauled to shore. They had traveled fully a mile.

$28.00 BUDGET FOR FAMILY OF THREE

A lady from Lowell is no doubt waiting for a reply to her letter requesting budget suggestions, but as she gave no street number I've had to wait for space to reply on this page.

She writes: "My husband does not think I do very well with his $25 a week. I pay $7 rent weekly, $1 garage, $1.31 co-operative bank, $2.43 insurance, $1.05 for light and gas, 93 cents for milk, 40 cents for papers, 86 cents telephone and $5 payments on furniture. This leaves only $4.44 for food and incidentals. (My husband really makes $28—$3 is his spending money.) My mother lives with us, making three in the family."

I hate to have to tell you, dearie, that you are living as though you had $35.10 a week to spend instead of $25, but such is the case. This is how your money should be allotted, figuring on $28 instead of $25, since this is your real income. Rent, $5.60; food, $7; operating, including coal, gas and electric light and telephone, $4.20; clothing, $4.20; savings, $1.25; miscellaneous, including insurance, garage rent, husband's spending money, payments on furniture, doctor's and dentist's bills, charity and amusements, $5.60.

I do hate to be such a kill-joy, but really if you keep on this way you'll get deeper and deeper into difficulties.

Firstly, you are paying too much rent, and you cannot afford to carry both the heavy insurance and co-operative bank shares. Since you pay $1 a week for garage, I assume husband has a car, and the upkeep for this has to come out of your miscellaneous fund, already too heavy.

Can't you arrange to have the payments lessened on your furniture, even though it will take longer to pay for it? Meanwhile you'll simply have to sacrifice your clothing allotment to help out on the other bills.

But with the prospects of your expenses increasing rather than diminishing, I do want to strongly urge you to look for a more reasonable rent and try to get your obligation into the plan I have outlined for you.

Remember, it isn't anything that you personally are doing wrong, but just your whole plan of living, that makes your outgo far greater than your income.

Please read my budget article in last Tuesday's paper for advice in your marketing. I'll gladly send you some economy cookbooks if you will send your full address.

Sorry if I've hurt your feelings, honey—but sometimes we have to hurt in order to help.

TAPE INSURES YOUR SUPPLY OF MITTENS

Mittens and mufflers are one of our trials and tribulations these days. And if there are several children the problem becomes truly complicated, for several pairs of lost or mixed up mittens are more aggravating to replace than one pair.

Well do I remember my mittens, firmly attached to a long black tape, that passed through the sleeves of my coats. I'm sure that hundreds of pairs were saved in this simple way; for then, as now, my gloves were anywhere but on my hands. (I only wish tapes were fashionable for grown-ups. I'm mourning three pair lost within a month.)

The washing of mittens and mufflers has been simplified by the flaked soaps which dissolve in an instant in hot water. A big bowl of suds can be prepared so quickly and it's really the work of only a moment to douse all the wooly articles of one color up and down in the fluffy suds for a minute or two and squeeze the water through the meshes.

Rinse in clear, warm or slightly soapy water, and lay the articles out on a soft cloth or Turkish towel on a flat surface to dry. Use only a mild soap and soft water for the washing if you would keep the color intact and the wool soft and pliable. And be sure the water is only warm. Hot water will cause bad shrinkage and a matting of the fine wool fibres.

DANDELIONS IN MARKETS NOW

I fairly yelped with glee at all the fresh, new green things that are on the vegetable counters this week. Dandelions—so good for what ails us—are an investment at 40 to 50 cents a pound. (I don't mind washing them since I became the proud possessor of a dish washer that does the trick to a turn!) Rhubarb is 20 to 25 cents a pound.

After a rhubarb pie Dad will be far more likely to okay the bill for a new cape coat! (Especially if you use the new ready-made pie crust—just add cold water and roll.)

I found new carrots, new cabbage and some new baby beets at 14 cents a bunch, too. Strawberries are as low as 69 cents a quart. (Maybe Dad will fall quicker for strawberries than rhubarb?)

Lemons have riz—35 and 40 cents a dozen, but though high, we must have them for stubborn Winter coughs and colds.

Meat and fish prices are about the same as last week. Fresh clams are 25 cents a pint, and oysters 50 cents a half-quart.

STATE SECRETS

ARE NO MORE jealously guarded than one of my neighbor's recipes. I did pry a cake secret out of her for you, however.

THE SMOOTH, RICH ICINGS for which she's famous come all-ready-prepared! Vanilla, chocolate or mocha flavor. Just moisten and spread. A 25c pkg. covers a multitude of cakelets.

WHY STRUGGLE to make butterscotch sauce, when you can buy it in shiny glass jars, all ready to serve on ice cream or for pudding sauce? 50c. Twin slices of sponge cake with ice cream and butterscotch sauce makes a butterscotch sandwich dessert fit for the gods. 35c a serving in tea rooms—not half that at home.

OF COURSE YOU'VE HEARD about the new, quick-cooking oatmeal? Special process makes steaming hot, wholesome breakfast cereal ready in three minutes. Adds 18 long minutes to your morning nap. Delicious, too, with a "flavor all their own."

YOUR FAME WILL SPREAD as hostess, if you serve cordialized tea drops with afternoon tea. Gives a fascinating flavor to the cup that cheers. Truly new. 50c. Your bridge club will adore them.

THIN CREAM will whip like thick if you use a drop or two of a wholesome liquid preparation, specially for this purpose. A real saving these days. Takes less elbow grease, too. A 35c bottle will last for ages.

LENTEN SOUPS acquire a new, delicious flavor if you stir in a tiny bit of mushroom paste. Makes wonderful gravies, too. From fresh mushrooms. Only 30c. Gives a rich, meaty flavor that you'll vow is from juicy beef.

LOVERS OF LIMBURGER can now indulge their tastes to their heart's delight. Limburger in close covered jars won't scent up the pantry and ice chest. The best limburger ever, 28c, with the old objections to its odoriferousness overcome. Tell Dad about this.

HEARTY AND HEALTHY you'll be if you eat Swedish rye bread. Now comes in little cartwheels, packed like graham crackers. 16c. More convenient than the great big loaves. Eat and be merry—because well. The real health bread.

YOU CAN BROIL WITHOUT SMOKE on top of gas, electric or oil stove if you possess a dripless, smokeless broiler. Made of silver gray steel. Lasts forever. Wonderful for steaks and chops. Banishes the bane of the frying pan.

THE TIME HAS COME, as the Walrus said, to think about a gas range for the Summer home. You can get a big allowance for your old range towards a wonderful new one, with wonderful smooth top. No cold spots. One burner will cook an entire meal. A real money-saver. Write me for lists of its other virtues.

FIFTH LESSON IN MAKING OF LAMP SHADES

Rambling 'round with Priscilla Price I've been particularly impressed with the vogue for Parchment Shades. So I've delved into the mysteries of this craft, too.

I find that it's not at all necessary to be an artist to make even the gorgeous decorated parchment shades if you choose simple designs and use oil paints. Best of all, the cost of making these lovely additions to your home is very small indeed. Patience is more vital than pennies in this craft.

In choosing the shape for your lamp shade, don't forget that the extreme limit of the direct light should be below the eye level and below the nearest normal position of the eye. A shallow shade on a tall lamp will throw the light rays directly in the eyes of the unfortunate sitting near the lamp, whereas a too deep shade on a low lamp confines the light to so small an area as to make it practically useless.

Lamps with an open top are to be preferred, for this throws some light upward, thereby lighting the ceiling and upper walls, often left in dinginess when a room is solely lighted by closed top lamps.

If you'd like to make a parchment shade, write me for complete instructions, or information where you can take lessons free of charge.

USING INTELLIGENCE IN HOME MAKING

The more we use our intelligence, the sharper it becomes. Why not keep your wits sharp by studying the most efficient housekeeping methods?

HERE'S THE RECIPE FOR MARTHA'S PRIZE WAFFLES

2 eggs (3 if you feel generous).
1 cup milk.
¼ cup melted shortening.
1 tablespoon sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
2 cups flour (cake preferred).
3 level teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.

Beat the eggs separately. Add the milk to the yolks, then the melted butter. Sift together the flour, salt, sugar and baking powder. Add this slowly to the first mixture, beating with egg-beater until light and full of bubbles. Add the vanilla, and last of all fold in the beaten egg whites which should not be too dry.

Have your waffle iron piping hot. Grease it well with melted shortening if it is of cast iron. If electric, heat for ten minutes or until a piece of white paper placed between the grids is dark brown. Do not grease an electric iron if the grids are aluminum.

Serve with pineapple or orange marmalade, butter and sugar, or maple syrup. These should be a short cut to any man's heart.

TAILORED SUIT INDISPENSABLE

Every Spring the tailored suit question is agitated by fair femininity. And once again, this Spring, Dame Fashion, usually so fickle, but for once faithful to an old love, includes the tailleur in Milady Up-to-Date's wardrobe. For street wear, for shopping and for traveling this old friend is indispensable This year its smartness depends upon the severity of its lines—and its brevity is the more excuse for intriguing footwear.

Gray and navy blue lead in suit colors this season, with the tan and covert shades following closely

PINEAPPLE IS MORE POPULAR

"What I know about Hawaii could be answered in one word—"Pineapples"—but it would take a volume to cover all I know about pineapples.

First and most important to the calorie-counter, their value in slenderizing diets, and the thousand and one appealing and appetizing ways they can be served. In fruit cups and cocktails, in endless salad combinations, in hot and cold desserts, including pies, puddings and ices, in cakes and cake fillings, frostings and sauces, in punches and other drinks, this versatile fruit is equally appreciated.

And methinks that much of its popularity can be credited not only to its delicious flavor but to the fact that it is now packed in so many convenient forms—sliced, broken slices, diced or crushed, and in various sized cans.

No longer need we bruise tender fingers and thumbs wrestling with stubborn pines and "eyes."

Shall I send you a fascinating little book full of recipes for luscious pineapple treats?

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Hasty Pudding Club to Present Play of Revolutionary Times

HARVARD COLLEGE'S top-notch set of amateur "troupers," the talented and versatile Hasty Pudding men, whose theatrical offerings have enlivened many, many Boston Spring seasons, this year go back to the days of the Forefathers for the title and atmosphere of their stage tidbit.

BELIEVING, WITHOUT DOUBT, that "brevity is the soul of wit" they've christened their show "1776" and plan to transport their audiences to Cambridge when Colonial buff and blue military trappings adorned stalward youth, the while Milady flaunted her silks and satins.

GLORY OF AUTHORSHIP of "1776" lies with George R. Leighton, '26, and William L. White, '24, while Lee Ward fills a General Managership and Austin Soule does the ardous work of keeping the general public informed as to this latest Hasty Pudding offering.

ALTHOUGH LOUIS SILVERS, coach extraordinary to local amateurs, is already in town to take the reins, only one principal role has been definitely assigned. That goes to Scott Wilson, last season's "leading lady," who romped away with so many honors.

YOUNG MR. WILSON makes a comely girl, graceful and lissom; as demure a maiden as ever graced a stage, professional or otherwise. Added to these charms he dances divinely, with a finish and abandon that has already caught the notice of more than one producer.

IN HIS CAPABLE HANDS the leading lady part will be perfectly secure. And, of course, the moment's Terpsichorean rage, the Charleston, is down in Mr. Wilson's repertoire, together with ballet dancing and the more stately measures of 1776.

VERY SOON OTHER principal roles will be assigned to competent youths, for there's a wealth of talent to be found in the "Pudding" and each year's show sets for itself an ever higher goal. Considering the history of Hasty Pudding achievement, that goal is a very lofty height.

OLD GRADS COME back to fill the cheery little clubhouse on the evening of April 14 for what is called "Old Grads" night, a first presentation of the show, really a glorified dress rehearsal before an audience extremely critical and friendly.

PERHAPS A BIT of a change, a speeding up, is the verdict, and for the next two evenings undergraduates flock into and overflow the Clubhouse, perching everywhere, while smoke rises rafterward, to press the stamp of their approval on the show.

THEREAFTER, THE whole troup departs on a most ambitious route, reaching all the way from Northampton to Detroit and back to Gotham. "One night stands" include Buffalo on April 19, Detroit on April 20, Cleveland on April 21 Pittsburgh on April 22 and New York on April 23.

IT'S ALTOGETHER new field for the Hasty Pudding men to conquer, with the exception of Northampton, where Smith College turns out en masse for the Harvard cohorts, and Gotham, where their following is staunch and exceedingly smart.

BACK ONCE AGAIN in home territory, the Hasty Pudding men share the Hollis Street Theatre stage with their friends and well wishers of the Vincent Club. "1776" plays on the evenings of April 26, 27 and 28 and of course, as is the way for Pudding shows, there'll be crowded houses.

LOUIS SILVERS also is the guiding light for the Vincent Club whose "Come Across" from the pen of Mrs. Chauncey Nash is a return to the smaller, less Revue-like offering than has been Vincent custom in years just past.

THE FIRST OF Dr. Sarah Ellen Palmer's talks on Paris comes Wednesday morning at the Copley-Plaza before a distinguished gathering, many of whom have followed her talks with rare delight in previous years.

PARIS AS Victor Hugo and his friends knew it will be seen through the eyes of today's traveler to the city by the Seine. Dr. Palmer takes her hearers on a literary pilgrimage from Place des Vosges (Victor Hugo's home) to the Place de la Concorde, touching on historical, literary and artistic high lights.

HAVING LIVED much in Paris, both in student days and since and knowing intimately the French people and their beautiful city, its history and associations, Dr. Palmer is delightfully versed in her subject, and adds thereto many unusual illustrations to illustrate the text.

FOR THE SECOND and third talks she speaks of French Court life on the Loire and the Bayeux Tapestry, taking her hearers to the Museum of Fine Arts in the Fenway, a truly inspired setting, having at hand many museum possessions to be viewed in connection with the lecture.

TO THE LONG and distinguished list of patrons enrolled for Boston's visitation from the Moscow Art Theatre Musical Studio is added the names of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Coonley. Mrs. Vincent Astor heads the Metropolitan roll, which ends with Mrs. Henry Rogers Whitney.

PROF. GEORGE P. BAKER, Mrs. Newbold Edgar, Arthur Curtiss James, Thomas W. Lamont, Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. August Belmont and others of place and importance are included. Likewise the Boston list is weighty with distinguished names, all presaging a brilliant reception for the talented Muscovites.

MEMORIAL FOR SLAIN PRIEST IS PLANNED

Irish County Organizations Hear Addresses; Many Floats in "17th" Parade

By JAMES WALSH

Members of various Irish county organizations attended an enthusiastic meeting in Historic Hall, Deacon Building, in behalf of the Father Michael Griffin memorial which is proposed to the memory of the martyrde priest in his native Galway.

Fr. Griffin was lured by Black and Tans on the pretext of administering the last rites to a dying man, and was shot. Fr. Griffin's mother has donated a site for the proposed memorial church.

The Rev. Thomas M. Naughton of Galway, who is in this country in the interest of the memorial, spoke on the life of the dead priest.

Bartholomew Fahey, president of the County Galway Men's Association, presided and introduced Fr. Naughton. One of the features was the playing of an orchestra under the direction of John Fahey, and the playing of the Irish Pipers Band of Boston.

More than 300 delegates representing practically all of the Irish societies of the State, yesterday further planned for their participation in the Evacuation Day exercises on St. Patrick's Day, when about 10,000 members will take part in the parade in South Boston.

Reports were received from district chairman for Roxbury and South End, Cambridge, Charlestown, South Boston and other districts. The speakers included John Morton, Christopher I. Fitzgerald and Willard De Lue, all of whom referred to the historic floats the Irish organizations will have in the parade.

The following societies have arranged definitely for floats: Knights of St. Finbar, County Cork Men's Association, Central Council of Irish County Associations, County Wexford and County Galway Associations; John Boyle O'Reilly Associates of Charlestown, Irish National Foresters, Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters.

Delegations from various parts of the State were present; also delegates from the Ladies' Catholic Benevolent Association and the Catholic Daughters of America.

There was a large attendance at a meeting of the County Kildare Association in Auxiliary Hall, Hibernian Building. Arrangements for the annual May party in O'Connell and Jackson halls on May 27 were made. James Fennelley, president, addressed the meeting.

Seventeen new members were initiated at ceremonies conducted by the Ladies of St. Finbar in Hibernian Hall. The organization is co-operating with the Knights of St. Finbar, County Cork Men's Association, for a whist party and dance in the near future, the proceeds of which will be given to the Rev. John O'Donovan, of Skibereen, County Cork, who is visiting in this country in the interest of St. Colman's Foreign Missions Society. The annual May party will be given on May 20. The following committee was appointed on arrangements for the May party:

Miss Margaret MacSweeney, Miss Margaret Barry, Miss Helen Hayes, Miss Theodora MacDonald, Miss Nellie MacSweeney, Miss Mina Drew, Miss Nora Hayes, Miss Lillian Murry, Miss Mary A. Roonan, Mrs. Mary Donovan, Mrs. Mary O'Connell, Mrs. Julia A. Collins, Mrs. Margaret Guyette, Mrs. Nora McGonigle, Mrs. Barbara McCarthy, Mrs. Mary Doherty and Mrs. Margaret Murry.

The next meeting of the Washington-Pearse Council, American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic will be held Wednesday evening at Boston Teachers College, Huntington and Longwood Avenues, at 8 p. m.

OLD IRONSIDES POEMS FROM HUNDREDS

Fund Near $150,000 Mark and School Contributions Still Pouring In

The proposed rebuilding of "Old Ironsides" has inspired hundreds of New England children to write poems about the famous frigate.

Eleven-year-old Doris McAlduff of No. 206 Warren street, a pupil of Sarah J. Baker School, sent one to the Boston Evening American with a letter. The letter read: "I am sending my little mite to help rebuild 'Old Ironsides' together with a little poem I wrote myself. My mama said I should send it to you because your paper takes so much interest in this old ship. I am going to see the ship when it is finished."

The poem that Doris wrote follows:

I never saw "Old Ironsides"
But know it is a boat,
I hope that they will make her
The finest ship afloat.

My daddy told me stories
Of its wondrous deeds at sea,
When our nation was a baby
Not much bigger than me.

So I am sending you my savings
Like the other children do,
To save her from the junk heap
That she was going to.

And when she gets all dressed up
And is floating in the breeze,
May her Stars and Stripes remind us
Of the glory of her deeds.

A total of $149,081.36, exclusive of the contributions of nearly $6,000 from Boston school children, has been received by the national committee. Among the most recent contributions from New England are: Boro grammar school, Stonington, Ct., $4.38; Hancock school, Hancock, Me., $1; Four Corners school, Middlesex, Vt., $1; Bridgeton school, Bridgeton, Me., $5; Mitchell school, Woodbury, Ct., 23 cents; Orange school, Orange, $1.

Shopping with Priscilla Price

DEAREST ANNE:

This has been an awfully short week, and now that Lent is here most social activities have been somewhat curtailed. Again I have a few minutes to sit down and tell you about the wonderful values I have seen about town.

O'Connor's Inexpensive Dresses

—Are again to the fore. My dear, they are wonderful. I ran into their lovely shop at 157 Tremont St. the other day and I was simply amazed. Think of women's dresses at $16.75 to $25! We have always needed such a department as this. The gowns are beautiful creations of splendid quality crepe de chine cut after much higher priced models. All colors and sizes for women up to size 46, and for misses 14 to 20.

Plain tailored models have the new raglan sleeve and straight backs and many are finished with fine pleating or smart metallic stitching.

O'Connor's flannel sport dresses are only $16.75, too. Two-piece models with skirt on bodice top so it can be worn for variety with blouses or sweaters. Dainty hand stitching on some, also silk tie and the newest type skirts. Really awfully good looking. All evening dresses in taffetas and chiffons, flares, bouffant and straight line are $25.

If anyone wants a new dress F. P. O'Connor's is the place to get it. They have the best I have seen for many a day and so inexpensive. It is a great relief to go to a shop where women of the better type are catered to and where you can get a low-priced dress and be certain of its cut and material as well as workmanship.

"What a Lovely Color

—your pearls are," said a fashionable Beacon St. hostess to me the other day. (THIS IS A TRUE STORY.) "One Dollar at Filene's Jewelry Counter on the First Floor," said I with some pride, as I knew that the string of imitation pearls around the lady's aristocratic neck had cost her $200.00 last Summer in Paris. "I don't believe it," said she, "they're just as good in color as mine!" "Go down to Filene's and see for yourself," said I. And she went. Never again will that charming lady buy her imitation pearls in Paris—she says that at Filene's she found lovelier things for a tenth of the price that she had paid in France.

The buyer of the Jewelry Department at Filene's has certainly done a marvelous piece of work. It is so easy to go wrong in imitation jewelry—there are so many cheap and tawdry imitations on sale everywhere. But even the inexpensive designs at Filene's have a beauty in color and lustre that makes them an invaluable detail to any costume. They are really beautiful. Just go to Filene's and look at them!

Chiffon and Holeproof

For weeks I have wanted some chiffon hosiery that would wear and at last I have found them! Talbot's, 395 Washington St., have them. They are having a sale for this week only of their standard $2.00 "Holeproof" chiffon hosiery for $1.55 a pair or three pair for $4.50! Talbot's are the sole Boston agents of "Holeproof" and these are the last word in fine hosiery.

Every pair is full fashioned, made of the highest quality pure silk and thoroughly inspected. They are beautiful things, a good shaped leg tapers into a slim ankle and the foot and top are reinforced with fine lisle for extra wear.

You know that chiffon stockings are the latest from Paris—everybody is wearing them on the Rue de la Paix and at Cannes; in fact all over fashionable France you will see them on the well-dressed woman.

Many makes of chiffon hosiery are perishable, but "Holeproofs" really do wear.

You must go into Talbot's and see the new colors—daybreak, haze, champagne blush, satin blond, shadow and cloud are some that are most alluring, and, of course, gun metal and mauve taupe are very stylish, too.

Chiffon that wears is "Holeproof" chiffon and only $1.55. They are remarkable and, dear Anne, do take advantage of this one-week sale at Talbot's.

The Duchess of Norfolk, of the distinguished family of that name, is now in Boston.

Beautiful Russian Women

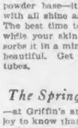
for years have used "Velouderma" to keep their face and hands soft and velvety. The Touraine Glove Company, corner Washington and Winter Streets, are now selling it to Boston women. And it is only 25 cents a tube! My dear, it is simply marvelous and absolutely indispensable in the prevention and cure of chapping, and the roughness and redness of the skin, also for hang nails and softening the cuticle—truly a wonderful aid to beauty.

I must tell you all about it—it was made before the Russian Revolution at Moscow and "Velouderma" then was one of the most talked of and extensively used beauty creams in the whole of Russia. Women of the Russian aristocracy are considered the most beautiful in the world and they heartily endorsed it. One man escaped to Belgium and at Liege has opened up a factory for its manufacture and now it is sold at the Touraine Glove Company.

Really, Anne, you would love it. It is very delicately scented with rose or violet and made of pure glycerine and honey. And as a powder base—it is splendid—and does away with all shine as it contains no oil or grease. The best time to use it is just after washing while your skin is still warm. The skin absorbs it in a minute, leaving it soft, white and beautiful. Get one of these marvelous little tubes.

The Spring Hats Have Arrived

—at Griffin's at 370 Washington St.! It is a joy to know that such lovely things are going to be a part of our early Spring costuming. You will find them on the Third Floor of Griffin's smart shop on Washington Street, near Franklin, and they reminded me of a lovely collection of Spring flowers, so exquisite are the colors and designs. Many of them are in that latest material—embroidered silk of pastel shades; and I noticed that the new French manner of trimming with graceful ostrich fancies was evident on some of the models. One of the close-fitting models—for $17.50—was of arbutus pink and trimmed with a spray of the arbutus blossoms. It is quite the most bewitching hat I've seen. And there are close-fitting models in pastel shades of felt—and others in the wide-brim models that are most graceful and alluring in line. I've seldom seen such a fascinating collection of hats—and in all the very latest advance Spring models that Paris has sanctioned.



They range in price from $5.00 to $25.00 and if you wish a really smart and becoming hat you must surely get one of these lovely models at Griffin's.

Found—A Glareless Lamp

At last I have found a glareless table lamp at the Edison Shop, 39 Boylston St. A light diffusing porcelain bowl inside the shade casts a soft, warm glow downward and inverts the rays so there is absolutely no glare. It is really wonderful. The base of the lamp itself is a very beautiful piece of craftsmanship — designed after an old Spanish masterpiece, finished in antique hammered gold, making a very rich looking as well as sturdy lamp.

The shade is lovely. It comes with it and fits on top of the inverted porcelain bowl. It is made of beautiful Cheney silk and lined with the best quality burnt orange for becoming glow and is trimmed with neutral harmonizing braid. The whole lamp complete is 39 inches high, just right for your library table.

Why don't you go into 39 Boylston St. and see one of these lamps? Just think, they are only $17.50 and, my dear, they are worth heaps more! The Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston will demonstrate one for you either at home or in their shop. Another thing, too—you can charge it on your light bill if you are an Edison Service customer. It is truly a marvelous lamp and I know you will realize it if you see it.

Water Lilies for the Center Table

—Have you seen the beautiful water lilies for the center of your table at Penn's the Florist? They are very lovely and Penn is the only place in Boston that sells them. Made of wax in one piece they are exquisitely colored and float in a center bowl. The price—it is almost nothing—$1.50 or $5.00 for extra large size is all Penn is asking for these beautiful blossoms that will last indefinitely. The colors are exotic, lovely yellow, rose, American beauty, blue, peach or creamy white, all with little bud and green leaf.

I saw one at a dinner Barbara gave the other night. A peach colored water lily was floating in a large, shallow, robin's egg blue bowl in the center of the table and the color scheme was carried out with matching peach candles. It was most effective and is the last word in table decoration.

These water lilies are all tinted by hand, and it is almost impossible to tell them from the real flower. The centres have lovely waving stamens that really seem to be holding the soft, sweet pollen in all its fragrance on their slender stems. Do drop into Penn's on Tremont St. at the foot of Park St. and get one of these lovely creations.

Food for Lent

Now that Lent is here we are all turning our thoughts toward Lenten dishes—and S. S. Pierce Co. has arranged most tempting displays of appetizing foods for this season at their Tremont St., Coolidge Corner and Copley Sq. stores.

They are really awfully attractive and just think, S. S. Pierce has 64 varieties and brands of fish in tins or jars, and 50 types of cheese and 16 of macaroni which, by the way, is becoming a more and more frequent dish in many households. So we all can find many things we like.

Their Percer smoked sardines are excellent, the best Norwegian sardines are put up in olive oil, and only 17 cents a tin. Delicious for luncheon plain or in salads or sandwiches. Pierce's also have wonderful salmon steaks and cutlets and the most delightful crab meat and firm, tender, dry shrimp, all put up ready to use. Do ask one of the salesmen for several of their Southern recipes for serving shrimp. They are different and would tempt the most jaded appetite.

Don't you love Roquefort cheese? It is only 62 cents a pound at Pierce's and is the best imported and so good on crisp lettuce or with their Bent's hard biscuits and demi-tasse.

Pierce's have everything you can think of and you pay no more than elsewhere—soups without meat, tuna fish, lobster, crab, caviar, herring, codfish, Bombay duck, cheese, olives and salad dressing, also vegetable extracts for soups and sauces—all make delectable dishes for Lenten menus. Don't forget to see their displays.

Affectionately,

Priscilla

SAMUEL CURTIS, JR., Radio Editor

LISTENERS BAR INTERFERENCE

In most cities complaints are made in some district or other of man-made interference. A wholesale co-operative plan seemingly would be the most satisfactory method of eliminating this trouble.

"In the Middle West," writes Prof. Morecroft in the March Radio Broadcast magazine, "the broadcast listeners have found it to their advantage to organize in order to improve the conditions under which they receive their programs. One such organization, the Broadcast Listeners Association of Indianapolis, reports an extensive program with the purpose of eliminating interference of all sorts.

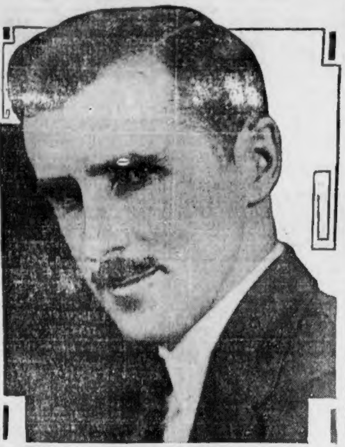
After only a short existence, the membership list has expanded to twelve hundred and the activities have become quite diversified. The small membership fee proves sufficient to carry on what paid work appears necessary; certain trouble locating apparatus has been purchased and is regularly used by some of the members in finding out the reasons for poor reception.

"According to a report recently released, meetings are held regularly, at which radio engineers generally give talks on interference causes and their prevention; from three hundred to five hundred people have attended these meetings. A campaign against the single circuit regenerative receiver is being constantly waged, while for those who still prefer to use this type of receiver, an educational series of talks on the proper and legitimate use of regeneration has been carried out.

"A remarkable degree of co-operation has been secured from the public utility companies in Indianapolis and vicinity. A typical letter, from the superintendent of the Indianapolis Street Railway Company says: 'This company stands ready to co-operate with the Broadcast Listeners Association at all times and will remedy any condition of its tracks or cars that might interfere with radio reception. We have already cleared up several bad spots that have been complained of by radio users.'

The telephone company and the electric power companies have similarly expressed their desire to remedy conditions which are pointed out by the Listeners Association as being detrimental to good radio reception. This association, it appears, is accomplishing a really valuable work for the listeners in Indiana," concludes Professor Morecroft.

AN EARLY BIRD



Radio fans, meet "Jimmy" Haupt, popular WEAF announcer, who officiates at the Metropolitan Tower each morning while you take your morning exercise. "Jimmy's" forte is in his fundamental knowledge of music which bears outlet in the planning of such programs as the "Fireside Hour" and the WEAF "Light Opera Quartet." A native of St. Paul, Minnesota, he began singing at the age of eleven as an alto in a boy choir, and while at Thiel College, aside from studying piano and pipe organ, he organized a quartet. In addition to his announcing duties at WEAF, he is director of the vocal department of the Riverdale, N. Y., Country School, and is tenor soloist in a New York church.

MISS DENTLER COMES TO WNAC

Tonight at 6:30 there will come to the radio audience a touch of the romance of South Sea Islands when Mary Ann Dentler, the stage star, who created the title role in "Aloma of the South Seas," will come to Station WNAC, The Shepard Stores, and bring the native Hawaiian singers and instrumentalists who create the tropic atmosphere for this sensational love drama, which opens at the Wilbur Theatre on Monday evening.

Miss Dentler gives first her impressions of the South Seas, and then will introduce the Hawaiian group. These singers and instrumentalists will play their native music in a way which is seldom heard on the radio. The plaintive tunes of the romantic islands are in their hearts, and their very fingers caress the strings of their home-made instruments.

BAY STATE 4 WBZ FEATURE

The Bay State Quartette, long an "open sesame" to the hearts of radio listeners, will broadcast from WBZ tonight at 8:30. Listeners who heard the Old Timers' programs from WBZ last year will recall the many pleasant moments that were afforded them by this organization. In the program tonight they have included many of the "old timers'" as well as many of the popular quartette arrangements.

Another feature from WBZ tonight will be the broadcast of the WBZ Radio Movie Club from the new studio at the Fine Arts Theatre, Boston. Tonight George Fecke, director of the club, will present the feature acts appearing this week at Loew's State Theatre.

European Radio News

Requests from abroad for American-made radio apparatus filed with the Commerce Department include inquiries from Netherlands as to radio sets and parts; data and prices on loud speakers from Denmark; radio specialties and novelties from Austria, and radio apparatus from England.

It is not alone in the United States that announcers fail to repeat the station's call letters frequently enough to please all fans; especially those at some distance from the station who seek to determine its identity; British fans are also complaining that the announcers are careless and do not give the station calls often enough; they want the call after each and every item on the program.

• • •

Batavia is one of the few countries free from radio interference, but, as this it due to the fact there are no stations on the air there, it is apparently of little benefit. Some venturesome citizens plan the erection of a small broadcaster although it will be in violation of local laws and subject the promoters to legal action. Nevertheless, it will probably serve as a test case, forcing the authorities to take a definite stand on this modern problem already accepted in most countries as a blessing, although accompanied by considerable trouble. A single broadcaster at Singapore is practically the only station the few local fans can pick up besides the ships code messages.

Vacuum Tube Not a Lamp

The amount of light thrown off by a vacuum tube is no indication of its sensitiveness or general condition. In many of the modern tubes, of both the coated and uncoated varieties, little or no light is visible through the glass, because of the inner coating of mercury which lines the bulbs. The heaviness of this coating varies considerably the amount of light that penetrates through it, so no significance at all can be attached to the brilliance of the illumination.

Dry and Storage Cells

A storage battery takes electrical energy, stores it in the form of a chemical action and then changes it back to electrical energy when the battery is placed in service. This action can be repeated many times before the battery is worn out. A dry cell develops electrical energy from chemical action. In order to repeat the process when the battery is discharged it is necessary to renew the chemicals.

Caused by Phone Cord

Care of the telephone cord connected to the speaker is an important matter often overlooked. The conducting strands of the flexible cord are extremely delicate. Should the cords become kinked, some of the strands are liable to be broken, causing scratchy noises as contact is intermittently made and broken. Static is often blamed for noises of this kind.

Radio Queries

Q.—L. S., Framingham: I have a five-tube Freshman Masterpiece on which I get a lot of interference, especially on the lower wavelengths. WBZA, WEAN, WCWS and WTAB all come in in a jumble and I cannot clear them up. KDKA and WJAR are the same. My aerial is eight-five feet long and lead in is twenty-five feet long. I have tried a condenser in series with the antenna, but with no results. I have some odds and ends of radio parts including a five-plate condenser and a honeycomb coil. Could these be used in some way to help me out?

A.—You evidently are located in a place where the volume from each of these stations is somewhere near equal. Your antenna appears to be O. K. My advice would be to make a wavetrap out of the five-plate condenser and honeycomb coil (provided the coil is one of fifty turns). This wavetrap is connected as follows. Connect the two ends of the honeycomb coil across the terminals of the variable condenser. Then simply connect the condenser in series with your antenna. The wavetrap should then be tuned to the wavelength of the station you wish to eliminate.

Q.—F. B., Stoughton: I made a one-tube single circuit regenerator and can obtain nothing but a steady hum. When I put my hand on the variable condenser the hum gets louder. I tried reversing both A and B batteries, but with no better results. Can you help me?

A.—Your difficulty appears to be an open grid connection. Check over your coil and look for a broken wire. Then go after the grid condenser and leak and see if anything is amiss. A humming sound such as you have described can seldom be caused by anything else, particularly when no signals can be heard.

Q.—W. F. K., Dorchester. Will you explain what is wrong with my set? I have a five-tube Pathe. My antenna and ground is OK and the tubes light fine. I don't believe there is anything the matter with the batteries. Will you explain in the Evening American Radio Queries.

A.—I cannot advise you with the meagre information at hand. Please write again, telling how long you have had the set, type of tubes used, kind of batteries, etc. What are the symptoms shown? How does the thing act?

Don't Experiment

It is poor policy to experiment with a set that is believed to be in perfect working order. One is apt to throw something out of adjustment, or even entirely ruin many of the parts.

A PIRATE of HEARTS

by BEATRICE BURTON

Author of "GILDED KISSES"

The Love Story of a Boston Girl Who Wants Only One Man---and the Husband Who Strayed

"I'd make a good husband, Sylvy," declared Peter, "homely men make the grandest husbands in the world, you know."

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR, who looks like a flirt but isn't one, is engaged to marry RANDALL PHELPS. He asks her to break their engagement and tells her he is in love with her best friend, FAY SHIRLEY.

Sylvia gives him up, greatly to the satisfaction of her maiden AUNT AGONY, with whom she lives. Aunt Agony or Agnes declares that Ranny is a good-for-nothing and that Sylvia couldn't do better than to marry PETER WILK, a sober swain who is in love with her.

But Sylvia knows that she never will care about anyone but Ranny, and she is curiously stirred when Fay tells her that she is sure that Ranny really cares more for her than he does for Fay herself! Sylvia discovers that Fay is seeing a great deal of EDDIE CARTER, a prosperous young business man to whom she was engaged when she fell in love with Ranny.

One night Fay gives a Sunday night supper. Eddie puts liquor into the fruit punch and the party grows very wild. Late in the evening Sylvia sees Fay slip out of the back door with Eddie Carter and start off with him on an automobile ride.

Ranny comes into the kitchen and asks where the pair have gone, but Sylvia refuses to answer him and walks away from him.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER V.

(Copyright, 1926 by Johnson Features, Inc.)

It was late and the party was breaking up when Fay and Eddie got back.

They came, driving like the wind, down Joy street and slid to a stop before Shirleys' house.

Fay jumped out and rushed up the front steps and into the living room, where Peter was doing the Charleston as a slow-motion camera would show it.

"Atta boy, Petey!" she cried, clapping her hands and laughing shrilly.

She was plainly excited. Her eyes shone greenly and there were two spots of genuine color high on her cheek bones.

"Where's Ranny?" she whispered to Sylvia, who was playing "I Wonder Where My Baby Is Tonight" at the grand piano in the farthest corner of the big room.

Sylvia shrugged her shoulders. It was not until then that she noticed that Ranny had gone.

Only a moment before he had been there, talking to Peter as he smoked a cigarette or two, but when she went to the front door and looked out his automobile was gone from the place where he had parked it.

"Never mind. I should begin to worry about Ranny!" Fay said, carelessly. "I have other things on my mind that are more important! For instance, how are we going to get this mob out of the house before Mother and Dad come back from Westboro?" Mr. and Mrs. Shirley had driven to spend the day with Fay's grandparents.

"That's easy," Sylvia answered. "Just tell them to go! That's what I have to do at my house when Aunt Agony's on a rampage."

Aunt Agony was waiting up for her when Peter brought her home.

She was sitting up, stiff and straight as a ramrod, in her chair under the parlor lamp, with her worn old Bible on her knees.

"Well, you certainly spent the Lord's day in a fine way, Sylvia Starr!" she observed grimly when the girl came into the room and sat down opposite her.

She jerked her gray head in the direction of the Shirley house across the street.

AUNT IS ANGRY

"I heard all the cheering and yelling going on over there the whole blessed evening!" she went on. "You'd have thought the place was full of a lot of wild Comanche In-

20 RACES ON ARENA CARD

Clever Malden Boys and Fancy Skating Stars to Precede Hockey Game

Here's the menu for the big night tonight at the Boston Arena:

The Appetizer—Fifteen races in the Boston Evening American's Gold and Silver Skate Jubilee Races, between youngsters from Dorchester, East Boston and South Boston.

The Soup—Stunt skating by the Noseworthy brothers of Malden.

The Fish—Fancy skating by Mrs. Theresa Weld Blanchard and Nathaniel W. Niles, Miss Maribel Vinson of Winchester, Roger F. Turner of Milton, Miss Gertrude Dutton and Thornton L. Coolidge.

The Roast—Hockey match between the teams of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Boston University.

The Dessert—Finals in the Boston Evening Amtrican's great tourney and the awarding of the gold and silver skates.

GALA PROGRAM.

Never before has Boston seen such a program of sport crowded into one night.

So that all the kids may attend, their admission has been placed at 10 cents; adults' tickets, 25 cents.

The Noseworthy boys have been hailed as the skating marvels of the decade by experts all over the country. They will show their skill and daring in barrel-jumping in the fox and geese race, while the younger boy will attempt to lower the half-mile speed record for boys under 12 years of age.

The calibre of the coterie of fancy skaters is too well known to lovers of the Winter sport to need detailing. Mrs. Blanchard and Mr. Niles are Olympic pair champions, Miss Vinson and Mr. Turner are juvenile American champions, and Miss and Mr. Coolidge are the juvenile pair champions of the Boston Skating Club.

SCORES SEEK SKATES.

The hockey match between the teams representing Boston University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology would be alone enough to jam the Arena for the two are bitter ice rivals and have teams this year which compare with the best in the country. Each is ready to go at top speed and a torrid contest is sure to be staged.

And the finals in the Boston Evening American's Gold and Silver Skate Jubilee Races is the goal of hundreds of youngsters in every part of the city.

The winner in each class receives a pair of gold skates, while the runners-up receive silver skates.

The classes are: 220 yards for boys under 14; 440 yards for boys under 16; 880 yards for boys under 18; 440 yards for girls under 18; 880 yards for girls over 18.

CHURCHMAN IS FOUND DEAD ON EVE OF TRIAL

Brookfield, March 1.—Investigation is today being made into the death of Daniel S. Kennedy, 67-year-old superintendent of the Congregational Sunday School, who was found dead in his garage under mysterious circumstances on the eve of his trial on charges of having criminally attacked a 15-year-old school girl.

His body was found crumpled between the running board of his automobile and the wall of the garage by his twenty-three-year-old wife Mrs. Anna Boutelle Kennedy, his bride of a year. The door of the garage was closed but not locked when the young wife went to look for her husband.

All windows in the garage, too, were tightly closed. While police, both State and local, believe the accused man was a suicide, no statement will be made until after an autopsy has been made by Medical Examiner Charles Deland at Spencer. This autopsy was orded by District Attorney Emerson W. Baker of Fitchburg.

Kennedy was arrested a fortnight ago as he was leaving the Congregational parsonage and the serious nature of the charge against him caused no end of excitement here and in Hardwick, where he was a well known farmer until retirement five years ago.

At the time of his arrest, State police intimated that they were continuing their investigation and that other charges involving young girls might be made against the aged Sunday school teacher.

FRIENDSHIPS ARE SWEET

THE oftener I look back over the years, the more sure am I that friendship is about the sweetest thing in life.

Friendship outlasts every other sentiment. Love, in comparison with friendship, is a frail thing indeed. Often the least touch breaks it, to the amazement of the lovers themselves.

But if friendship is really friendship, it is of good-wearing stuff. What a lover would not dare say for fear of wrecking his chances of happiness, a friend can say—and leave the friendship even more secure.

Your true friend will always help you if he can, even by telling a truth that is painful to tell and to hear.

Your true friend will make few protestations, but he will always be standing by to give moral and material support.

Your true friend can be laughed with! Yes—if he is a true friend you will even let him laugh at you as well as with you. For you will know in your heart his laugh is not malicious.

This reminds me of an old friend of mine.

"Strange," I said one day, "how very different we are, you and I, and yet how well we get on. Not a thing in common really—yet we remain friends!"

"Ah," came the smiling answer, "you forget we have one great bond in common: I think you are wonderful—and you agree with me!"

A funny little quip—and at my expense! Yet I was so secure in that friendship that I only laughed in enjoyment of the thrust at my egotism.

Ah, yes, friendship is a comfortable a restful thing. I wish there was more friendship in marriage. Marriage should be, in fact, a deep, fine friendship. It is the best ending for a life partnership. Nothing is more beautiful to me than to see a husband and wife "the best of friends"—able to bring problems to each other; to discuss differences in a calm and tolerant way.

Married friendship can be cultivated. I know whereof I speak, for thus it has been between the King and me, who are today the best and fondest of friends.

FR. PASSERI, CAMBRIDGE PASTOR, DEAD

On the eve of a visit to his home in Italy, and a few minutes before celebrating a requiem mass, Rev. Fr. Ruggiero Passeri, O. S. M., pastor of St. Francis of Assisi Church, East Cambridge, died suddenly in the parish house today.

Although slightly indisposed for the past two days, Fr. Passeri celebrated two masses yesterday and preached two sermons, as part of his regular Sunday routine.

This morning one of the mission fathers conducting a mission at the church, went to the pastor's room in the parish house on Court street, and found him preparing to rise.

Father Passeri said he felt very well. A few minutes later a lay brother found him in a dying condition, and the last rites of the church were administered just before his demise.

Fr. Passeri, who was fifty years old, bore the reputation of being one of the most learned priests of the Fransiscan Order. While a student in the College of St. Mary's of the Angels, he was a professor of theology and philosophy in Italy and New York.

Two days ago he received permission to return to his native town, Assisi, Italy, to visit his eighty-five-year-old mother.

CARROLL GOES BEFORE JURY IN 'TUB' CASE

New York, March 1 (Universal).—Earl Carroll is due before the Federal Grand Jury again today for further examination about the wet angle of his famous girl in the bathtub party of a week ago.

He is also due to meet in the corridor some of the guests whose names he gave and who signed the famous waiver of all damages for consequences. Names of the others subpoenaed were not given out at the office of Emory R. Buckner, the padlock chief, but his right hand man, Mr. Rushmore, said:

"Nobody can stop you from seeing who goes in and who comes out of the Grand Jury room."

Countess Cathcart put in a busy day with Mr. Carroll at his theatre rehearsing for the first time her part as leading woman in the play, "Ashes of Love." She couldn't recall the names of her fellow players when she returned to the Ambassador Hotel to powder her nose and don her evening clothes.

The play is scheduled to open in Washington, D. C., right under the nose of John J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, on March 15. Lady Cathcart was sure she would be on deck to play the lead, despite the deportation order against her. She referred all inquiries on her case to her lawyer, Arthur Garfield Hays.

Mr. Hays said he was going to take a chance on arguing the writ of habeas corpus tomorrow without the "corpus," declaring that he did not consider it necessary to send her back to Ellis Island. She will be in court when the case is called before Judge Henry W. Goddard.

FIRPO HAD CHAMP ON K. O. VERGE

Jack Says He Can't Pin Any Medals on Kearns as a Second

By JACK DEMPSEY

CHAPTER 9

ADMIRERS of Jack Kearns call him one of the greatest seconds that ever appeared in the corner of a fighter. And yet—well, I can't pin any medals on him.

In my fight with Jess Willard, after it was thought I had knocked out the champion in the first round, Kearns became excited, and I was ordered out of my corner and to the dressing-room before the result was official. My absence from the ring nearly lost me that fight.

In the second round of my fight with Tommy Gibbons, the man from St. Paul broke open an old cut over my eye with a stiff punch. When I returned to my corner someone, in his efforts to put a liquid medicine into the cut to stop the flow of blood, accidentally poured most of it into my eye—and I was blinded in that eye until along in the seventh or eighth round.

And about the only time in my entire fighting career when I really needed help from my corner was in my battle with Luis Firpo in New York on September 14, 1923.

JACK GOES "GOOFY."

Never in my entire career under the management of Kearns was I ever in any real trouble coming back from a round—until that night. Then I needed real guidance and advice. For I'd gone a bit "goofy" in that first round of madhouse fighting, didn't know what it was all about—and needed some one to tell me what had happened, to snap me back to physical condition and advise me what to do until I got my bearings.

In all of my fights I have insisted that unless I was groggy or goofy from punches that my seconds were not to confuse me by giving me advice.

For I feel that while a fighter is in full possession of his mental faculties he's far better equipped to know what to do—or not to do—than do his seconds.

I alone know whether the other fellow is weak or strong under my pounding; I know better than any one else whether his punches are hurting or slowing me up, and certainly, as a participant in the battle, gaining knowledge with each new motion, I know pretty well what the other fellow's tricks are, and what he will usually do under different circumstances.

Of course, I will yield the point that the men in the corner, by observation, might learn a little something that would escape me, but I learn a lot which escapes them. Therefore, I think that as between their judgment and mine, that mine should prevail.

DEMPSEY'S METHOD.

I never go into a fight, nor into any separate round of any fight, with a set idea for activity. The only thought I have is to find an opening and to punch through it and drop the man if I can. I cannot anticipate whether the opening will come for a left hand or a right hand.

Therefore, if I adopt the purpose, as some fighters do, of going into a round with a definite notion of landing a right hand on the other fellow's chin, or a left to the body, I might become so absorbed in that attempt that I would overlook many opportunities to land other—and perhaps winning punches.

So I never permit my seconds to confuse me with any detailed suggestions, nor do I go into a round with any fixed plan of operation.

Therefore, in all my fighting days, under the management of [illegible] he has, because of my insistence, rather carefully refrained from trying to advise me.

From the time Jack Kearns became my manager to this day I needed smelling salts but once—and advice and suggestions just as often.

I always instruct the man who is my trainer to take along four bottles of smelling salts and to provide each of my seconds with a bottle. The idea is that if one or two are lost or broken there'll be at least two left for any emergency.

In keeping with this plan, I instructed Jerry (the Greek) Luvadis, my trainer for the Firpo fight, to bring along four bottles and to distribute them so that if I needed smelling salts there would not be any delay in my getting them in a hurry.

Jerry gave one bottle of smelling salts to Kearns, another bottle to Joe Benjamin, who was also in my corner, and one bottle for himself. And, I think, he gave another to Dan McKetrick, who was outside the corner. It was well that he brought four, for three of them were lost or broken in the wild confusion in my corner.

Luis Firpo landed a right-hand punch on my chin, almost before the clang of the bell had died away in the first round of our fight in New York on September 14, 1923.

It must have been obvious to those in my corner that if I ever survived that first wild round, I certainly would need a lot of first class revival assistance—and many whiffs from a bottle of smelling salts.

And it also must have been fully evident that I was rather confused in a mental way and that when I got back to my corner I would need some calming advice and somebody to punch back into my brain a few facts and a few pointers. It was then I needed Jack Kearns' seconding ability as never before in my lifetime.

Dan McKettrick, who was a sort of assistant adviser to Kearns, and who was sitting back of the corner, got a little excited himself during the first round. For when Jerry the Greek stood up and obstructed Dan's view, Jerry tells me Dan hit him on the head with a cane and nearly knocked him cold. Jerry, who wore a bump on his head for a week, was just recovering from the blow when the round ended.

FIGHTS BY INSTINCT.

I do not remember much about that first round of fighting, except that I opened up by swinging a vicious left hook at Firpo.

Firpo caught me with the right hander flush on the jaw. And then things went sort of blank and remained so until I was revived by Jerry's act of throwing a half bucket of water over me as I came back.

Jerry helped to throw me into a chair. My brain was clearing and I was beginning to try to figure out what it was all about. Just as I was about to ask, I heard yelling in my corner and someone took a punch at Jerry and grabbed at something Jerry had in the pocket of his shirt. While that was going on Joe Benjamin was all excited and chattering—and suddenly he disappeared. I heard he fell backward into the press box.

I do not know who did finally get the smelling salts and held it under my nose, but I think it was Jerry. I know that Jerry was rubbing some ice on my back and was putting water on my head. And sponging me off in a calm way, despite the fact that he claims McKettrick had hit him on the head with a cane.

Kearns started talking to me—but I couldn't understand what he said. So I leaned over toward Jerry, who still seemed calm and unruffled, and Jerry was saying:

"Keep in close. Do not try any long-distance slugging with him."

Jerry tells me that I made an answer to him in this fashion, as the bell rang for the second round and I jumped out of my corner:

"I'll kill him for you this time, partner."

The fight was about the wildest thing that ever was put into the record books; the crowd was transformed into the wildest mob that ever witnessed a ring battle.

Tomorrow Dempsey will tell about his quarrel with Kearns over the management of his hotel.

THREE TOUGH GAMES BEFORE BRUINS

By BILL GRIMES.

With the Bruins fighting for a place in the National Hockey League play-off, the B. A. A. and Pere Marquettes battling for the lead in the amateur league and Boston College and Boston University playing for the Winsor Cup, this week is the most important of the local hockey season.

Along with the finals of the Boston Evening American Gold Skate races which will be held this evening, there will be six hockey games at the Boston Arena this week.

Boston University and Technology will play the third and deciding game of their series this evening and on Thursday evening the Terriers will meet Boston College in the second game of the Winsor Cup series.

The B. A. A.-Pere Marquette game on Friday night will be the big amateur attraction of the week.

By the scant margin of one point over Pittsburgh, the Bruins are in third place in the National Hockey League. The Rossmen have three hard games before them this week. The Bruins are scheduled to meet Les Canadiens tomorrow night at the Arena and Thursday evening they are down for a battle with the Maroons in Montreal and will wind up the week with Ottawa at the Arena. This is the first time that the Bruins ever played two home games in one week.

EYE OPERATION ON TY TODAY

Baltimore, March 1 (A.P.).—Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, arrived in Baltimore today to have his eyes treated before joining his club at Augusta, Ga., for Spring training. He said he probably would undergo an operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital this afternoon and be ready to enter training in a week or ten days.

The Georgia Peach is believed to be suffering from a tiny growth on the inner side of the eyeball caused by dust and other irritating particles.

THREE SENATORS STILL UNSIGNED BY GRIFF

Tampa, Fla., March 1 (I.N.S.).—Clark Griffith, owner of the American League champion Senators, had some real worries today.

Dutch Reuther, his prize left-hander, has announced he will continue selling real estate rather than pitch ball for what Griff wants to pay him. Muddy Ruel, veteran backstop, has not signed up, nor has Goose Goslin, the Senators' Babe Ruth. Goslin reported to the training camp here, but has not signed.

COUNT SALM TO PLAY IN DAVIS CUP MATCH

New York, March 1 (I.N.S.).—Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten today announced his intention to sail for Europe this week or next for the purpose of playing in the Davis Cup tennis tournament on March 15. The count will represent Austria in the matches.

500 Pray for Health of Hugh Jennings

OLEAN, N. Y., March 1 (A.P.).—Five hundred students of St. Bonaventure College, near here, are offering up prayers this week for the recovery of Hugh Jennings, erstwhile St. Bonaventure student, now coach and assistant manager of the New York Giants, who lies seriously ill at his home at Scranton, Pa. Jennings played on the St. Bonaventure baseball team in 1902 and 1903.

HELEN STARTS NEW TOURNEY TOMORROW

Monte Carlo, March 1 (A.P.).—Miss Helen Wills, having emerged victorious from the Monte Carlo Lawn Tennis Tournament, enjoyed another day of rest today. She is entered in the Mentone Tournament opening today, but drew a bye in the first round.

Suzanne Lenglen has sent in her entry for the doubles competition for the "Cup of the Nations," in which she is paired with Henri Cochet. Suzanne has her name on the cup twice, having won once with Cochet and the second time with Rene Lacoste, and the cup becomes her possession should she win this year.

Miss Wills is not entered in the cup event, as she was unable to find an American partner expert enough to give her a chance of victory against the other formidable national pairs.

Mlle. Lenglen is not entered in the women's or mixed doubles, so there is no chance of her meeting Miss Wills across the net during the Mentone play. After the cup play, she will lay down her racquet until June, and perhaps until Wimbledon.

GAMBLING TABOO FOR PIRATES THIS YEAR

Pittsburgh, March 1 (A.P.).—Gambling for high stakes and dice are absolutely taboo at the Paso Robles, Cal., Spring training camp of the World Champion Pirates. Reports received here say Manager William McKechnie has issued an edict to this effect and making known that games with only small amounts involved will be tolerated.

"I have seen many clubs disrupted by dice games," the manager is quoted as having told the players.

FRAU NEPPAICH WINS IN TENNIS DOUBLES

Monte Carlo, March 1 (A.P.).—Frau Neppaich, the German woman tennis star, and Herr Kehrling, won the finals in the mixed doubles of the lawn tennis tournament here today, defeating Mlle. Vlasto and Baron de Morpheurgo of Italy 5—7, 6—0, 6—4.

Treat Urges Change in Amateur Rules

By HERB TREAT

Herb Treat

In the realm of sporting competition today, there exist amateurs, pseudo-amateurs, semi-professionals and professionals. In many cases only a thread separates an amateur from a professional, yet they get away with it.

They say that you're either a professional or an amateur—there's no go-between, but there is that go-between, let's call that class, "the pseudos," who are more conspicuous than ever, and will some day be known as a class entirely apart from the distinct amateur and the distinct professional.

It will be a big class and will have its own "Pseudo Open Tournaments" in golf and tennis, and perhaps baseball, swimming and football will be represented by the false amateurs too. Why not recognize this class and cut out so much ridiculousness.

Look at the case of Suzanne Lenglen, who got her bit by advertising the Riviera, and got it not in cash, but in contracts, or what not, for her father.

Helen Wills may be entirely a pure amateur, but she has written articles on tennis and received money for them, which disqualifies her, if we are to interpret the rules strictly.

Ralph Gilroy at Princeton was not allowed to participate in athletic competition his senior year, after having been elected captain of the football team, because he had been granted a loan to defray part of his tuition from a person on whom he was not naturally dependent. Here the rule was strictly interpreted.

WHO ARE AMATEURS?

Just who are the real amateurs? The real amateurs whom I have come in contact with are those who are in schools or colleges and engage in sports for the love of them. They are in a class by themselves. Most of them are young and dependent upon their parents.

And then there is that great body of amateurs who will always be amateurs because nobody would ever pay them—not being good enough to rate money. The newspapers, of course, are the media, and unless you do something sensational or remarkable you dont command such space. If you get space you can cash in.

CHAMPS AND CASH.

My claim is that when you are up there—when you're a champion—you should be allowed to cash in on the fact that you are good, especially if you find it hard to make both ends meet financially.

After all, it seems to me that unless you're not good enough, or in college, or wealthy, it's foolish to be an amateur. The rule should be more lenient, and the "Pseudo class" be recognized as a worthy group.

It's a mighty complicated arrangement and unless those who are not so well off financially cash in, they ought to check out and be content to be only fair, as you can't straddle two horses at once, as was illustrated by Chick Evans in Chicago by his desire to remain a truly great amateur, and still have plenty of money.

PASS TODAY ON BILL BINGHAM

Although nothing was given out after this morning's meeting of President Lowell and the Fellows of Harvard University, it is expected that the result of the overseers' meeting at two o'clock this afternoon will be the announcement of Bill Bingham as the new athletic director of Harvard.

The meeting will be held in University Hall, Cambridge, and the business to be brought up is the same which was discussed by the corporation this morning.

Consent must be given by the board before any recommendation of the corporation becomes effective. It is forecast that the approval of Bingham as director of athletics will be unanimous.

The athletic committee gathers tonight in University Hall to go over several matters of importance concerning Crimson athletics, including next year's gridiron coach.

SI ROSENTHAL JOINS SOX AT NEW ORLEANS

By JACK CONWAY.

New Orleans, March 1.—Si Rosenthal, Dorchester favorite, today reported for Spring practice with the Red Sox. He came here from San Antonio, Tex., where he spent the Winter.

Rosenthal was farmed out to the Texas League a couple of years ago and while there romance struck him out. He now has his permanent home in the Lone Star State. He will make a strong bid for a regular berth in the Sox outfield.

Sport Briefs

Manny Wexler, who gave Frankie Genaro some of his hardest battles, will oppose little Ernie Jarvis of England at a ten-round flyweight contest in New York Friday.

Wilbert Robinson, president-manager of the Brooklyn club in the National League, believes that he has a squad of pitchers equal to any in the circuit.

Philadelphia, March 1 (A.P.).—Seven of the country's leading amateurs are scheduled to start in the tournament for the Class A 18.2 championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players opening tonight at the Manufacturers' Club.

Buenos Aires, March 1 (A.P.).—Ermino Spalla, the Italian heavyweight fighter, has arrived here. He will fight Luis Angel Firpo next Thursday.

Entire Braves Squad in First Real Workout of Season

FIRST PICTURES OF BRAVES IN TRAINING AT ST. PETE CAMP

The first photos of the Braves in camp at St. Pete to reach Boston show the group of Banny's battery men basking in the rays of the warm Florida sun. The party on the [illegible] left to right [illegible] Benton, Rosy Ryan, Johnny Cooney and [illegible], all mound artists of renown. BIG TRADE BELIEVED BREWING

Other Clubs Anxious to Do Business With Locals; Banny Seems Willing

By NICK FLATLEY.

Nick Flatley

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 1.—The unanimous Braves started their real Spring training this morning. Manager Bancroft escorted his entire squad, excepting a straggler or two, on to the serried stretches of Waterfront Park and let loose the real work of a new season.

The pitchers have been working here for a week, but [illegible] an entirely new set of muscles and ligaments on his [illegible]. None of the invading [illegible] had tossed any baseballs around, save Nels and Gautreau, who [illegible] in advance, and the customary soreness was in order.

TWO PRACTICE SESSIONS.

Banny had intended to get down to one daily workout with the arrival of his infielders and fly chasers, but changed his mind over the week-end. He will take the boys out twice per diem, until such time as [illegible] players get [illegible]. The condition of the [illegible] Manager [illegible]. The diamond [illegible] for some [illegible]. The athletes [illegible] intensive sort of [illegible]. So they [illegible] to double time and [illegible] under repair for their first [illegible].

[illegible] will work the [illegible] today and as [illegible] tomorrow. Then he [illegible] Wednesday [illegible] coming in Saturday [illegible] crew to have some taste of [illegible] baseball.

A big squad of workmen were on the field all day Sunday, and the [illegible] that things will be [illegible] by Wednesday. The trenches in the [illegible] the garden have [illegible] and after a few [illegible] rolling the pasture [illegible] park once more.

[illegible] into town on the [illegible] large and small catches [illegible] catcher who tried to [illegible] and Ernie Padgett, [illegible] were the first arrivals. [illegible] the huge outfielder from Nebraska reported late Saturday [illegible].

[illegible] Thomas and Horace Kibble [illegible] of the new infielders were the [illegible], both announced [illegible] regular jobs and had [illegible] playing basketball during the Winter to get in shape for the same.

[illegible] came in all by his lonesome from one of the Florida towns where real estate was booming. Andy has been living in the great outdoors and has played a lot of baseball during the Winter. He claims that his work with the Braves last Fall didn't mean a thing. He joined the club after doing a lot of bench duty and never could hit his stride.

Several managers are still angling for some of the promising Brave youngsters and a surprising trade may be engineered before many [illegible] have passed.

CONWAY with RED SOX

Strategy Board Building New Team $100,000 for Ehmke

By JACK CONWAY

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 1.—Lee Fohl will be assisted by plenty of baseball brains in [illegible] the Red Sox. [illegible] of High [illegible] Lefty Leifield [illegible] and Jack Ryan. All four are experienced baseball men. [illegible] young ball club this year [illegible] more value. They will be [illegible] will rely to put Boston back on the American League [illegible].

Bob Quinn and Fohl are resigned to the fact they must build up their club without assistance from any other American League team.

Jack Conway

It is impossible to go out and purchase seasoned stars. The teams with the [illegible] players are looking on to them and try to get more first class men. The minor leagues and the independent clubs offer the only field where a club can get material to bolster up its weak spots.

Even while trying to rebuild Quinn has received numerous offers from other American League teams who have wished to get some of the star men on the Sox payroll. Every other club in the league would like to land Ehmke, Ruffing and Wingfield. Ehmke would probably bring $100,000 on the open market. Ruffing and Wingfield are in the $[illegible] class. Todt would draw a $[illegible] bid. It can thus be seen that the Sox still have some mighty fine ball players. But they need more high grade material to get up with the leaders in the flag scramble, and Quinn and Fohl intend to see that the proper players are brought to the front. They intend to keep trying until they succeed.

THERE'S a great deal of good fortune in picking up stars. A tip from a friend on the Pacific Coast resulted in John I. Taylor, former Red Sox owner, in signing Harry [illegible] who was playing in the [illegible] Coast League [illegible] career at St. Mary's [illegible]. They made good from the start and with Tris Speaker, who came to Boston from [illegible] for [illegible] considered [illegible] greatest outfield [illegible] ever known. Perhaps there's another Speaker, [illegible] here. Time will [illegible].

THE American League is going to have [illegible] this year. Washington, New York, Detroit, [illegible] and St. Louis [illegible] have good [illegible]. Boston, Chicago and Cleveland are rebuilding. [illegible] the Red Sox will come through [illegible] from the outset of [illegible]. If they do, [illegible] of the clubs [illegible] in the World's Series [illegible].

Baseball [illegible] greatest [illegible] be even more [illegible] during the coming season. There is a great deal of [illegible] other [illegible] sport [illegible]. The [illegible] baseball [illegible] from [illegible] on the American public.

To let the clubhead describe a turning to the right [illegible] around [illegible] after it has been shoved away from the ball takes just an instant of time and the golfer must school his muscles to be free, easy and above all, [illegible] in this part of the swing. The back swing should as a whole be a smooth-flowing exertion and, of course, the player cannot shove the clubhead away with one movement, let it drift around to the right with another movement and so on. These parts of the swing must flow as if one which the back swing is. A very [illegible] to [illegible] far or dead to only the initial shove-off of the clubhead, then the turning to the right of the clubhead.

Give me a pipe and Prince Albert

GIVE me a pipe and Prince Albert. I want to be happy, you bet. I know what I want when I want it . . . a smoke without grief or regret. Funny how a fellow wants to break into poetry when he's happy as a lark.

Well, that's ME all over. I've discovered the one tobacco that makes a jimmy-pipe a pal for life. Good old P. A., the chummiest tobacco that ever nestled in the bowl of a briar. Cool and sweet and fragrant, just never was a tobacco like P. A.

I start in right after breakfast and hit it up till I sign off for the night. It never bites my tongue or parches my throat. They tell me the Prince Albert process cuts out bite and parch. Whatever it is, I can testify they're out!

Here's a hot tip on a cool smoke—get yourself a tidy red tin of Prince Albert now. Tuck a neat wad of it into your old jimmy-pipe and make fire with a match. That's the formula . . . simple as falling out of bed. That's why I'm pipe-happy, Brother.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half pound tin humidors, and pound crystal glass humidors with sponge moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Can Mother Be Too Unselfish?

By L. Lamar Matthews

THERE was a funny-shaped two-thirds of a pie left for supper in the Martins' kitchen and Mrs. Martin was starting to slice it, while her husband and two small children [illegible] "I don't know how to cut it," she said. "It would make three nice slices, but not four."

"Well you don't want any, do you, Mother?" Ted suggested by way of solution. That was usually what Mother said, where there wasn't enough of anything to go around.

[illegible] Mr. Martin looked reprovingly at his son. "Yes, she does," he stated emphatically. "And I want you children to understand, right now, that Mother is always to have part of everything. Don't get [illegible] heads for one instant that she is to give up everything for you."

[illegible] Mr. Martin put his foot squarely down upon the children's inclination to take advantage of their mother's unselfishness. Furthermore he convinced her that it was the wrong attitude. Now that the son and daughter of the Martins are grown, they still respect their Mother. They never feel that she can be relegated to the background to suit their convenience.

It is no [illegible] to [illegible] selfishness [illegible] It takes very little encouragement [illegible] to induce them to look out for themselves, in every instance. It never comes hard to them to leave Mother rendering service continuously, without appreciation. Selfishness and arrogance are part of Youth and a [illegible] part for those who efface themselves is a perfectly natural consequence.

Mothers who demand deference and consideration are more beloved and more appreciated by their children than the doormat variety ever will be.

No More Cloudy Teeth You Restore Color Now

Gain gleaming, sparkling whiteness

Please accept full 10-day tube free. Note the amazing difference in the color of your teeth and firmness of your gums when dingy film is cleared off as leading dentists urge.

MODERN dental science has discovered a new way [illegible] Off color teeth [illegible] to sparkling clearness. Tender gums are firmed, given healthy coral color.

One's whole appearance thus is often amazingly changed in this way. Famous movie stars use it before going on a scene as an essential part of their "make-up." That's largely why movies' smiles are so glistening.

Leading dental authorities now widely urge it. For it marks a new era in tooth and gum protection. Please accept a full 10 day tube to test. You'll find your teeth are not naturally off color [illegible] simply coated with a dingy film that clouds them.

Just a film hiding them And imperiling your gums

Dental science now traces scores of tooth and gum troubles to a germ-laden film that forms on your teeth.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel it—a slippery, viscous coating.

That film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. And that is why your teeth look "off color" and dingy.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are a chief cause of pyorrhea and decay.

Old ways won't clear it off

Ordinary dentifrices and cleansing won't fight film successfully. Feel for it now with your tongue. Note how your present cleansing method is failing in its duty.

Now new methods are being used. A dentifrice called Pepsodent—different in formula, action and effect from any other known.

Largely on dental advice, the world has turned to this method.

Clears film off Firms the Gums

It accomplishes two important things at once: Removes that film, then firms the gums.

Mahogany Its Chief Product

THE most valuable product of British Honduras, Central America, is mahogany. For over 200 years it has been exported from that country, whose economic life depends solely upon the trade in this most valuable wood.

This Day in History

THIS is the anniversary of the first publication, in 1711, of "The Spectator," the famous periodical issued by Addison and Steele, in which the former wrote his papers The two originated popular English literature.

A PIRATE OF HEARTS :: By Beatrice Burton

The Thrilling Love Story of a Boston Girl and the Husband Who Strayed

[illegible]

Then [illegible] silence before Aunt Agony spoke again.

[illegible] had been jealous, then, of Eddie.

SHE CAN'T FORGET

[illegible]

Little things kept happening that reminded her of him constantly.

[illegible] came on the 10th of May, she and Ranny had gone on a picnic together [illegible]

[illegible] d miss that birthday picnic [illegible]

[illegible] happened to mention it to Peter [illegible] one Saturday afternoon [illegible] Public Library to beg her to go for an automobile ride—rather wistfully, Peter thought.

"I'll tell you—I'll give you a picnic [illegible] upon you, though. If it's all right with you I'll ask that wild crowd of [illegible] a steak supper [illegible] somewhere, that night. You pick your place and I'll do the rest."

"Fair enough," agreed Sylvia, but there was no brightness in her voice.

How could she tell Peter that she didn't want to go on his picnic? She couldn't, so she said, "You're a dear." [illegible] and was amazed at the [illegible] flush that reddened his face and disappeared into the top of his collar.

On the afternoon of the 10th she and Peter drove out to Concord a full two hours before the rest of the crowd.

It was one of those heavenly Spring days that are fresher and greener than any of the days that come in mid-Summer. The clouds were silver white and the sky was softly blue behind them. It was a day to make your heart sing [illegible] no matter how badly life happened to be treating you, and Sylvia's actually did begin to sing with the sheer joy of being alive on a day like this as she and Peter rolled along.

PETER'S PLEA

They [illegible] open space [illegible] the edge of the lake, and by the time the sun had set and the night was [illegible] through the trees it was a mass of glowing embers, just the kind of fire for broiling steaks.

[illegible] all the time Peter [illegible] Sylvia asked as she began to grease the frying pans with a piece of buttered wax paper. "Don't you think it would be lots more fun than being mean [illegible] houses?"

[illegible] was with you that I was [illegible]

Sylvia [illegible] started. There was no laughter in those [illegible] violet eyes of hers now. Peter had never seen them so grave in his life before.

"I'd make a good husband, Sylvy," he promised. "homely men make the grandest husbands in the world, you know. They don't step out."

"Hush. [illegible] Peter, but that's all it ever can be [illegible] friendship, see?"

If Peter saw, he didn't say so. He silently, almost grimly filled his pipe and didn't open his mouth until the first of the picknickers arrived.

[illegible] March and a New [illegible] "And he's just mad about me," she added. "I suppose that the minute Fay Shirley [illegible] to [illegible] him from me, but she'll have some time doing it. Is it true that she and Randall Phelps have busted their engagement?"

Sylvia's heart [illegible], but she went on cutting bread and butter as calmly as Werther's "Charlotte."

"I guess [illegible] haven't," she said. "When I asked them to come tonight they said they'd come together. That looks as if they were still pretty good friends, doesn't it?"

Sally nodded. "Yes, but you never can tell," she said, vaguely. Sally had been engaged almost as many times as Fay, herself.

TWO MISSING

However, at 9 o'clock neither Fay nor Ran Phelps had arrived.

"What'll we do about it?" Peter asked Fay, coming up to her as she stood a little apart from the others, peering into the darkness.

"Let's eat!" bawled the man from Yale. "I'm going to take a mouthful of moss in a minute if someone doesn't give me FOOD!"

And so they gathered around the glowing fire and began their meal. The steaks were done to a turn and the smothered onions would have done credit to a French chef. Peter, who had cooked them, was proud of himself.

"I didn't know I had it in me," he admitted, modestly.

"Your picnic's a darb, Sylvy," Eddie Carter said afterward when everyone was busy packing the plates and silver and grills into the automobiles.

Then his fat voice sank to a whisper. "Say, but listen, what do you suppose happened to Fay? She told me this afternoon that she was coming out with Ran Phelps at 6 o'clock."

Sylvia raised her arched eyebrows. "I don't know where they can be," she answered. "Sally March says she heard that they've broken their engagement. But my own private bet with myself is that they've run away to be married!"

(To be Continued)

What should a girl do when the man she loves comes back to her after jilting her for another? Will Sylvia swallow her own pride and take Ranny back? Or will she return humiliation for humiliation? Is the love that she has for him big enough to make her forget her own hurt and administer to his hurt?

Biggest thing of all, will she find happiness under those conditions?

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infested membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and cold, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.—Advt.

WILL this second honeymoon of the Stillmans last?

We all hope so, of course, but many of us doubt it!

That all has been forgotten and forgiven and that they can start as if nothing unpleasant had ever happened is improbable if not impossible. And when a woman [illegible] poor [illegible] and good reasons for leaving a man and has gone so far [illegible]

[illegible]

I cannot name one case of the many I know in which two persons who made up and tried to start over again succeeded. A young couple whose domestic battles led to a divorce, remarried and lived near me. It wasn't long until their battles started again and she seemed to me a pitiful sight the day she left him again and I saw her take a taxi with her paltry belongings.

[illegible]

In these reconciliation cases, the husband is apt to assume the hero role at once and make the wife feel that he is forgiving her. The injustice of this is bound to get on her nerves, and one word leads to another. Sometimes she prefers to stick and not let the world know that she regrets going back!

The hardest part of these reconciliations is to reconcile one's self to making the same mistake twice!

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

[illegible]

YES [illegible]

[illegible]

"If you [illegible] and I do hope that you can, I will send the ticket to you for safe keeping. And mother and I would very much like to have you dine with us at home before the dance. We dine at seven.

"[illegible] greetings to you and hopes for yes for the seventh.

[illegible]

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My friend and I have been going out together for almost a year. A very dear friend of ours is getting married. Will it be proper for us to give them a present together?

C. M.

IT would be better form for each one to give a separate present.

A REAL man prefers to look after his own belongings. Nothing [illegible] a woman attempt to help him on with his overcoat, either in a public place, like a theatre, or when he is calling on her in her own home.

And, girls, never hold a man's hat in your lap. Why should you treat a man as if he were not capable of taking care of his belongings? It is an insult to his manliness, an insult which a gentleman resents. Remember he doesn't regard it as a kindness, although you may have meant it as such.

Golden Medium in Weight Is Desirable, Says Jeritza

By Marie Jeritza

Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day

ALMOST [illegible] asking suggesting ways and means of [illegible] more pounds that may stand between a woman and beauty, pathetic letters pour in, asking me not to forget the woman who, like the lady in the humorous ballad, is "thin as the paper on the wall."

The thin woman gets scant sympathy these days because almost every one is trying to get thin. Still a golden medium is desirable and attenuated slimness is not any lovelier than over stoutness. A very thin woman often [illegible] poise and serenity because she hasn't sufficient reserve fat to feed her nerves.

Home-Made, but Ends Coughs In a Hurry

A family supply of dependable cough medicine. Easily made and saves about $2

If you have a severe cough or chest cold, soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up at night with croup and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup if desired. This recipe makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough instantly. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle, and soothes and heals the irritated membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes with such ease and promptness that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Winter Find You Tired and Achy?

Do You Suffer Constant Backache—Feel Old and Worn Out? Then Follow the Advice of These Boston Folks!

DO you get up these winter mornings feeling tired, weak, achy all over? Are you so lame, stiff and miserable it seems you can never get back in trim? Does your back ache with a dull, constant throb? Sharp, rheumatic pains torture you at every step.

Then you should give some attention to your kidneys.

Winter, you know, is a hard time for the kidneys. That's because exposure to colds and chills wears down body resistance and throws an unusually heavy strain on the hard-working kidneys. The kidneys are apt to fall behind in keeping the blood-stream pure, and poisons accumulate that well kidneys would have filtered off.

Racking backaches come with stabbing pains; muscles and joints ache constantly; there are headaches, too, with dizziness and distressing kidney irregularities. Nerves are jumpy; one feels old—all worn out.

Give your weakened kidneys the help they need. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They are recommended by many Boston people. Ask your neighbor!

DAILY SHORT STORY

CONFIDENTIAL WORK

By Jack Woodford

WITH wildly beating heart Norma struggled for composure. As Malcolm's arm went about her, it seemed that all measure of restraint and self-control must leave.

For a moment the youth was silent, contenting himself merely with being there his arm about her, her hand in his, his eyes fixed upon the white curve of her neck just below the ear.

Seeking some object that might have a steadying effect upon her, Norma looked desperately about the room. There was the little chap-book upon the table which, between its staid, warm brown leather covers sang of love, unhampered love, unrestrained love, love which considered "A loaf of bread, a jug of Wine and Thou. . . ."

Gazed Across the Sea

She glanced far out through the window off across the wide stretch of undulating green to the ocean beyond, blue and shimmering in the afternoon sun.

Gulls circled and wheeled within her line of vision, descending in long graceful curves only to swoop up again and dissolve in blue.

The warm wind, heavy laden with the scent of blossoms in the yard below swept in to her from the open window. Vainly she tried to think of Robert; prosaic, matter-of-fact, undemonstrative Robert, in the city, a hundred miles away, working, everlastingly slaving to provide her with the things of which the room spoke graphically. Dainty, cobwebby frocks, a white enamel bed bewitchingly covered with the lightest and downiest of silken covers, toilet articles of silver and of gold, diminutive slippers crowned with gorgeous jewelled buckles, a pair of long, sleek gray stockings left carelessly hanging over the back of a chair.

Robert, working, slaving, confident of her integrity, ever constant in his dog-like affection for her ever to be trusted. . . With her heart and soul she longed for the caresses of the ardent youth at her side and yet—if Robert had distrusted her, had he beset her with hedging restraints: if he were jealous, suspicious, watchful—but he was not. He had set her down in this California paradise, miles from the scene of his own activities, in this Eden of sea and air and flowers and younger people of her own age, without a word even of caution as to her conduct. . . .

She straightened up and drew a little away from Malcolm. Instantly he drew her close again—but she pushed him from her.

Sent Him Away

"I'm sorry, dreadfully sorry, Malcolm, that I should have seemed to encourage you into thinking. . . Please hear me now and know that I am positively disgusted with myself for permitting you to come here. The surroundings, the day, the spirit of this place. . . I don't know what got into me. You must go now, and I don't wish ever to see you again."

Rising she walked to the window struggling, as he could plainly see, for control. For a minute he watched her in silence and then, striding resolutely to where she stood he seized her, attempting again to take her into his arms.

"Norma! Norma!" he breathed over and over again, unable to think of further words with which to express himself. Forgotten was everything but the fragrant, yielding burden in his arms.

She resisted him at once and, after a moment, he gave up. His arms hung limply at his sides. Words of penance came to his lips, but they sounded empty even to him.

"I'm a beast, Norma, a cad; I can't understand what has gotten into me—I guess I presumed too much upon the mere fact of your permission to visit you here alone. I'll go away, at once."

He was so delightfully young, she was thinking to herself, even younger than she, and it had indeed been all of her doing. She oughtn't to let him blame himself. She remembered guiltily how she had led him on from that first game of tennis to the intimate little canoe trips and the moonlight chats out on the wide hotel's verandah.

She Wavered

For a moment she wavered in her determination as she watched him standing there, misery pouring from his large brown eyes, contrition and helplessness written in every line of his face, but again she remembered that other more stolid individual, nearly twice Malcolm's age, her husband, the man who trusted her implicity. Oh, if he had only been a little suspicious, if he had only added zest to the possibilities by supervising her actions, placing restraints, finding maiden aunts who "needed a few months at the shore," how delightful it would have then been to outwit some stupid "in law," how perfectly legitimate an intrigue would have seemed.

Under those circumstances . . . but Robert was wholly trustful. It would be like stealing from the blind, like robbing a paralytic.

With a sigh of resignation she walked to the door and opened it, standing with head bowed as the youth obediently approached. Passing through the door he caught hold of her hand and pressed it in a mumbling grasp, looked searchingly into the depths of her violet eyes, and was gone

When his footsteps had died away in the corridor she threw herself upon the bed and sobbed hysterically.

The low, monotonous buzz of the insects upon the trees and flowers, just below the window, the faraway blast upon some passing steamer's siren, and the hot languor of the mid-Summer's afternoon irritated her

Malcolm, upon leaving the room, went to his own, packed up and checked out of the hotel.

A few hours ride sufficed to get him back to his desk in the city. He called a stenographer and dictated a short letter and a shorter note which presently she brought back, after typing, for his signature

Called on President

Signing them, he gathered from the drawers of his desk some personal papers and other congeries and, packing them into a brief case, approached the president's private office.

Without waiting to knock he entered and walked calmly to Robert Lucen's desk. That worthy glanced up with an expression of angry surprise.

"What the hell you doing back in town?"—he began in frank displeasure.

"I came with this organization," stated Malcolm dully, "as a salesman—I'm sick of the detective work you detailed me to. I'm not temperamentally able to be a successful stool pigeon—not even for the generous money you offered me. Here is my resignation and my final report—" He turned and walked out.

Dazedly Lucen picked up the sheet marked "Final Report." It contained only one word: "Impregnable!"

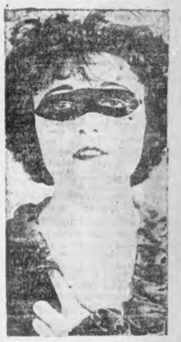
OUR OWN MASKED FILM PLAYERS' CONTEST



(Dear Friends of Puzzleland: Don't get discouraged by the "Masked Player" Contest. If you find it irksome, just sit down and have a good cry. Then try harder than ever. Cultivate the Will to Win. You CAN do things in this world if you THINK you can.

Dear, Sympathetic Aunt Bella, Puzzle Editress.)

Buck up!

Exercise those lazy thinking muscles!

Who IS today's Masked Player?

Here are the clues: Her initials are P...... N........

(The first, or given name, is Polish and therefore pronounced "Pola." In the last name the final letter, "i," is pronounced "e.")

The next thing to determine is what letters come between N—i? Does the "e" precede the "g" and does the "r" follow the "g"?

Now go on with the brain-teaser!

FOXY GRANDPA AND HIS INTERESTING DAILY BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

WE were in Europe one Summer and our travels took us to the country of Silesia. Now Silesia is a very old country, near Poland, and at one time it was a German territory, but was an independent State. And the people of Silesia loved and enjoyed their independence.

One day we went to see a dear old lady and she was very interesting and told us all about the history of her country.

I noticed a peculiar bracelet on her arm, but I didn't like to question her. As it happened, though, she told us about it as she spoke of her troubles that her country had been through.

"Yes," she said, "my grandmother used to tell me of the terror which ruled here when they heard the great Napoleon was marching with his huge army across Europe and was going to conquer every country as he went.

"Those were awful days," she went on, and she put her hand over her bracelet.

"Do you see this bracelet? I'll tell you the story of it.

"When news came that Napoleon was on his way, our country wanted to raise an army to defend its people and lands from the conqueror.

"Now, they didn't have much money to raise an army and equip it, so everybody gave up their own private funds to buy guns and uniforms and ammunition."

"Now, there was a young girl living in the village where my grandmother lived, and when she heard about the coming war and saw people giving their money and selling their jewelry and silver to raise money, she felt very badly, because she had nothing of any value. She was a poor girl. But her love of country burned in her bosom and oh, how she did want to do something to help!

"B , one morning she woke up. She had thought of something! She had beautiful long black hair, which fell far below her waist.

"She took one last look at it. Then she ran for the scissors and with a big snip she commenced cutting it off.

"Then she wrapped it in a paper and as soon as the shops were open she flew to the hairdresser and told him she wanted to sell her hair.

"It was beautiful hair and hairdressers always want to buy it—but they don't pay much. He told the girl he would give her $2 for it, and then he asked her why she had cut it off, because in those days a woman with short hair was a freak.

"The young girl told the hairdresser why she wanted to sell it, and he was much touched.

"He felt that she had done such a noble thing that he couldn't use that hair to make into a switch to sell to some other lady. So he wove it into ornaments—rings and necklaces and bracelets—and sold them. And he made a fine sum of money and turned it into the State in the girl's name. My grandmohetr bought this and gave it to me before she died. This is it."

"There's not enough long hair around our country to buy a popgun," laughed Bobby. "Times have changed."

BRANCH BANKS SENTIMENT IS DIVIDED

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

W. P. G. Harding

Governor W. P. G. Harding of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston says: "There does not appear to be any longer uniform sentiment throughout the country on branch banking. In fact, branch banking has become a controversial question. National banking laws do not specifically permit national banks to have branches, although under a ruling by the comptroller of the currency a few years ago they are permitted, in states whose laws accord similar privileges to state banks and trust companies, to have offices at various points within corporate limits of the city in which located, and at these offices are conducted many functions of a recognized branch bank."

Governor Harding goes on to say: "The McFadden bill, which recently passed the House and is pending in the Senate, broadens the powers of national banks, and is in the main a meritorious measure. It undertakes, however, to prescribe definite terms and restrictions governing establishment and maintenance of branches by national banks and by state banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System. Section nine of the Federal Reserve Act provides that, subject to provisions of the act and regulations of Federal Reserve Board made pursuant thereto, any bank becoming a member of the Federal Reserve System shall retain its full charter and statutory rights as a state bank or trust company and may continue to exercise all corporate powers granted it by the state in which it was created. It is regrettable that the Federal Reserve System, which numbers among its member banks about 1,449 state banks and trust companies, should be involved in any way in the branch controversy."

James H. Perkins, President, The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, New York, calls my attention to the fact that total wages and salaries paid by all branches of industry in the United States increased from $32,000,000,000 to $40,000,000,000 between 1918 and 1925.

* * *

"General business is splendid all over the country but it has been experiencing a seasonal lull," said James J. Phelan, member of Hornblower & Weeks, sailing on a three-months' pleasure trip to Europe.

FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Excitement has broken out in Wall street. Friday was black. More than 170 stocks fell to new low quotations for the year. The outpouring reached almost two and one-third millions of shares. Declines of $3 and $5 and $10 and even more occurred. Some issues showed losses of $10, $20, $30 and even $40 from the year's peak. The bears scored an almost uncontested victory.

Saturday brought no recovery.

* * *

Now there doubtless will be temptation in financial circles and throughout the country to attach serious importance to these spectacular happenings.

Don't do it.

The New York Stock Market has done little more than live up to its February reputation. Tradition has it that February customarily brings lower stock prices.

Everyone interested in the trend of business should note how the security markets act during the next few weeks. So long as sharp declines are confined mostly to stocks which were overboomed by brute force, no broad deductions need be drawn.

But, of course, if the majority of standard investment issues towards lower levels, business sentiment undoubtedly would be affected.

There is no more certainty that such a stock movement will occur than there is certainty that it will not occur. For the moment, it will be best to suspend judgment.

OLD COLONY BOND BRANCH SET OFF

Old Colony Corporation quarters.

One of the outstanding leaders in the investment field, the Bond Department of the Old Colony Trust Company, is introduced to the investing public in a new form, and will hereafter be known as the Old Colony Corporation.

the step is an important one in the history of an institution which, in less than a quarter century, has come to occupy a position in the front rank of distributors of high-grade securities throughout New England and other Eastern States. The change from the Bond Department to Old Colony Corporation comes as an inevitable move resulting from a gradual outgrowth of the organization as it existed, and will permit the field of active operation to be extended to other States as well as throughout New England.

The control of the Old Colony Corporation will be under the management and supervision of the directors of the Old Colony Trust Company and the following directors of the new corporation: Francis R. Hart, Philip Stockton, T. Jefferson Coolidge, Edwin R. Marshall and F. Winchester Denio. The executive officers will be Philip Stockton, president; Edwin R. Marshall, executive vice-president; Benjamin W. Guernsey and Frederic S. Battershall, vice-presidents; and Wilbur W. Higgins, treasurer.

come in. "Why," she asked, "do you stop me?" The answer came: "We cannot endure immorality in this proud country."

SHE GOT IN eventually, edified by high morality, no doubt, and was invited to a New York "wild party." There, the story goes, in a mixed crowd of men and women, she beheld a naked young actress taking a bath in a tub filled with champagne.

And that isn't the worst of it. The Ellis Island imprisonment advertised her so well that theatre and moving picture managers hired her. Now moving picture people say she can "never appear on the screen" because she went to that wild party.

WHEN THE very British Lady Spencer came to America, years ago, with her distinguished red whiskered husband of Spencer House, and stopped at the old Fifth Avenue Hotel, she was amazed by everything, especially by ten or twelve little dishes of vegetables around her dinner plate. She rolled her eyes to heaven and said to her husband: "I only ask you, Spencer, what does it mean?"

That's how Lady Cathcart must feel, when she tries to unravel our moral code.

THE GIVER of New York's wild party, by the way, denies that the young lady bathed in the champagne. He says the bathtub was "only full of ginger ale."

Invitations to the party, however, one of which this writer read, stated quite plainly that "everything would be supplied, including the stretchers," which indicates that an enjoyable time for all had been planned.

BYRD IN 2 HOPS HOPES TO SCAN WORLD'S TOP

Washington, March 1 (A.P.).—The Byrd expedition's dash by air for the North Pole will get under way from New York late this month, with its leader, Lieutenant-Commander Richard E. Byrd, expecting to land his plane at the pole and be back in this country before Summer ends.

With his ship and airplane crews selected largely from volunteers among commissioned and enlisted men of the Naval Reserve, Commander Byrd will depend on a three-engined Fokker plane to carry him over the icy wastes at the top of the earth. The Shipping Board steamer Chantier will be used by the expedition, which is being financed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Thomas F. Ryan, Edsel Ford and Vincent Astor.

PLANS SHORT HOPS.

Basing his preparations on the knowledge he gained as commander of the naval section of the recent MacMillan Arctic expedition, Byrd plans to base at King's Bay, Spitzenberg, but in the event ice prevents the ship reaching Kings Bay the flight for the pole will begin at some southerly point.

Cape Morris Jessu, at the extreme northern tip of Greenland, 400 miles from King's Bay, will be the first stop of the plane. A return trip to bring up supplies will be made before undertaking the second 400-mile lap straight for the pole. Although the plane has a 1,200-mile cruising radius, Commander Byrd feels that the dangers of the trip will be minimized by cutting the flight into two short hops. The craft is able to remain in the air with either of its three engines out of action.

In most of the flights Byrd will be accompanied only by Lloyd Bennett, chief petty officer in the Naval Air Service, and who flew with him while with the MacMillan expedition.

HAS RESERVE PLANE.

George E. Pond and Frederick H. Backer, Naval Reserve lieutenants with much experience, are being considered for the third pilot seat in the plane.

A second airplane to be in readiness in case of mishap to the Fokker will be aboard the Chantier, along with the most modern navigating and scientific observation equipment. Gasoline sufficient for 10,000 miles and food for six months will be taken. A special low wave length radio set will keep the plane and ship in communication, and a high wave length outfit aboard the Chantier will keep in touch with the world.

ELECTED TO MERCHANT TAILORS' ASSOCIATION

Everberg & Company, of No. 8 Beacon street, have received word of their election to the Boston exchange of the National Association of Merchant Tailors of America, the largest group of exclusive merchant tailors in the United States.

The local organization, a branch of the national association, restricts its membership to merchants conducting tailoring establishments and is co-operating in a series of business building activities being carried on within the trade.

A GOOD, CLEAN NEWSPAPER

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

BE A BOSTON BOOSTER

Way to Avert Censorship Is to Stop Giving Offense

There is some disposition to hold the theatre responsible for the disgusting party which a certain New York producer gave the other night, and this is most unjust.

The repellent episode was not a part of any play; it was just a low order of diversion indulged in by one whose business happens to be of the theatre. It had no more relationship to the American theatre as an institution than if another producer had beaten his wife while on a tour of the world.

This tendency to indulge in wholesale proscription on account of individual folly is not new. Long ago Burke declared: "Sir, you cannot indict a people!"

What he meant was that it was unjust to hold nations responsible for the misdeeds of citizens thereof.

Nevertheless the world continues to take pot-shots at classes, creeds, nationalities, professions, regardless of the savagery of such generalizations.

But the present disposition to blame the theatre for the depraved conception of social diversion just manifested by one of its representatives is not due entirely to the ancient custom of issuing blanket indictments. The real friend of the American theatre will tell the truth as he sees it and point out the enemies of the theatre as he sees them.

The truth is that our theatre is peculiarly vulnerable just now because so many plays are plain raw appeals to all that is base in human nature.

The Boston Evening American has seen fit time and again to warn the representatives of this great art that unless they ceased to offend the public's conception of decency a day of proscription would come.

The way to ward off censorship is to refrain from a course which ultimately may compel censorship.

The great majority of our actors stand for the highest traditions of art; they stand for the things on which right living rests, but they are going to be forced to rescue the American theatre from its enemies within if the present tendency continues.

Unfortunately those who claimed to speak for the theatre in the present case were not altogether happy in their utterances. Too many of them denounced the party not because it was wrong, but because it was likely to cause inconvenience to the stage and its people. There was too much denunciation of censors when there should have been more denunciation of offenders.

We plead for the theatre of Booth and Jefferson and Barrymore and Frank Bacon and Schumann-Heink, and the way to save this theatre is to apprehend its enemies and end their sinister power.

Fight Eagles With Lanterns

It Can't Be Done, or Airplanes With Searchlights

The National Engineer describes a searchlight of 1,200,000,000 candlepower, able to pierce through the air for five miles in the night, and find an airplane 30,000 feet up. It is a machine weighing only fifty or one hundred pounds and can be moved from place to place in war.

That's an important announcement. Such lights should be located near all population centres to find airplanes approaching to bombard cities.

But more important and encouraging would be the announcement that our Government intends to have a real fleet of swift fighting airplanes under control of men that know more about flying and less about the high blood pressure of the swivel-chair hero.

It must be remembered that while a searchlight might eventually find an airplane 12,000 feet up in the air, the man in the air would find the searchlight and the city first, and without effort, and put the light out of commission, then deal with the city.

You can't fight an eagle with a lantern on the ground or fight airplanes with searchlights or anti-aircraft guns.

Lamb Chops While You Wait

Mr. Crawford Urges the Farmer to "Get Down to Earth," Raise Sheep, Make Money

C. H. Crawford, the State of Maine's specialist on sheep, wants to live long enough to see at least a small flock on every farm.

The Maine Sheep and Wool Growers' Association, Inc., a co-operative purchasing and marketing organization, has grown in four years from a membership of 275 to one of 700 farmers, has paid to these members for wool $50,000 more than they could have obtained by selling as individuals, and has accumulated a surplus of $8,000.

As reasons which should encourage the acquisition of more farm flocks Mr. Crawford cites the fact that the initial investment is small, that sheep can be turned into fields that are hard to cultivate, that they can be made ready for market without grain and that no other animal is so nearly self-supporting.

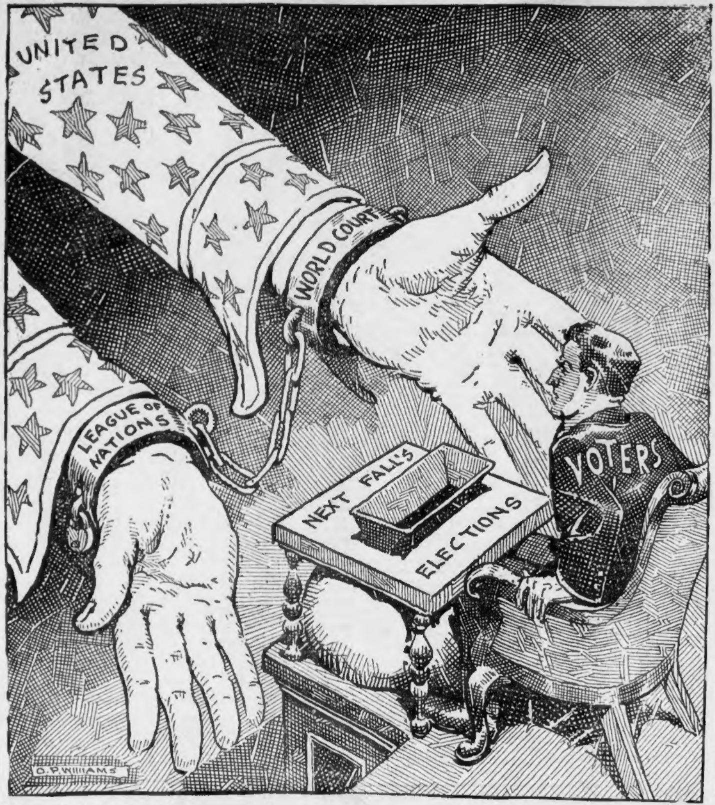
The raising of sheep does not call for the erection of expensive buildings. All that is needed is shelter from cold rains and damp snow. The sheep's uniform is all wool, guaranteed.

Own a few sheep, give them just a little attention, and night and day, even when you are listening in on Station AA, they will be producing wool and lamb chops.

WHY do so many young men leave the farm?

If you can answer THAT question, perhaps you can tell Mr. Cityman is forever planning to go back.

Appealed to the Supreme Court



NO necessity for face-saving stands between the people of the United States and the righting of an error.

All that is required is for the people to sense the error, for what the politicians in a democracy do the people can undo.

Pro-leaguers in the Senate thrust this nation into the League of Nations World Court, thanks chiefly to gag law. But in the solemn appeal which is coming they cannot keep it there if the voters overrule.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medhury

THE government forecasters are becoming so efficient that it won't be long now before we'll be able to order our weather in advance.

IF friends of ours are giving a lawn party and we aren't invited, it'll be nice to be able to have a shower delivered at their address.

A LITTLE rain will only cost three bucks, but if you want to spend ten dollars you can send them a cloud-burst.

AND for a few cents more you could have a tornado thrown in with it.

KANSAS has plenty of wind to spare and California would be glad to get rid of some of her earthquakes.

THE Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce would sell you as many as you wanted for ten cents a shock.

LAZY people could use earthquakes for shaking the ashes off their cigars.

SO far, Florida has the American rights to pleasant weather.

THE government ought to step in and give some of it to Missouri.

LISTEN, WORLD!

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By Elsie Robinson

IT'S all over but the shouting. Albert is gonna be a great writer, because he has artistic temperament. An' he has artistic temperament because he's gonna be a great writer.

Albert's fiancee doesn't doubt that for one moment. The only thing that's troubling Alberta is the difficulty of "getting along with Albert" when he's at his most artistic, and the problem of how they're going to eat after they're married.

"It's this way, Miss Robinson," writes Alberta. "I work now, and have some money saved up, but Albert doesn't believe in women working after marriage. Albert has written several things that will bring in good money, but it takes time, and as far as I can find out he hasn't really anything now.

Deeply in Love.

"Then there is his temperament, which makes it hard to get along with him sometimes, and I myself am kind of quick. I am the slow, plodding kind that has a job all the time, and I can't help flying up when I see him just sitting around wasting time doing nothing, and this makes him furious at me, because, you see, his is creative work and he can only work when he is in the mood.

"Miss Robinson, I really love him and know he will be great some day, but I don't know how I would be seeing bills come in and no money, and he is so dead against my working, though I have lent him money once in a while. I guess geniuses are the only ones that understand geniuses and their ways. They are sure hard to get along with when they have artistic temperament!

ALBERTA."

He Probably Is.

I'll agree with Alberta. By using discretion you can get along with a chap that's nursing a boil on the neck, or an ulcerated wisdom tooth, and anyway, you know it won't last forever. Sooner or later the boil will break, or he'll have the tooth out, and become his old sweet self again! But the artistic temperament is more permanent. Some of 'em never do get over it.

If the truth be told, "artistic temperament" in the home is nothing but an artistic alibi for general cussedness. In public life it is the press agent's idea of good advertising.

And how does the aforementioned Albert expect to be a great writer if he don't get in and work at his trade? You have me stumped, Alberta.

In fact, unless you think you'll enjoy supporting Albert, you'd better not marry him. He doesn't sound good to me.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By Helen Rowland

THE "Sleeping Beauty" is the only woman who was ever really SURPRISED at a man's "unexpected" kiss.

* * *

When a man finally tries telling his wife the truth, and discovers how well she understands him, he realizes how much ingenuity he has been wasting all these years.

Helen Rowland

There is something sort of sad about a "happy marriage" — in that a man comes home to dinner every evening.

Last year's love or last year's folly is always a poignant memory which causes a woman a little twinge of regret—but to a man, they are as completely forgotten as last year's hay fever.

Mother may not have known a thing about vamping; but, she could create a greater flutter in the masculine heart with a two-inch display of lisle-thread ankle than Daughter seems able to produce, with a pair of highly rouged and elaborately gartered knees.

Three Minute Journeys

By TEMPLE MANNING

IT has been a custom for countless centuries for women to carry burdens upon their heads. But have you ever seen a woman carry a live pig on her head? I doubt it. This is a custom that seems to be restricted to several of the small islands of the Pacific between the Japanese archipelago and the coast of Formosa.

There are no modern methods of conveyance and the stock must be carried great distances to market usually. It is not the men, in these islands, but the women who bear the burden of carrying the stock to market. It is said that the average coolie woman of this region is capable of carrying 200 pounds on her head.

And what is more astounding than that is the fact that the weight is sometimes not dead weight but very much alive. The pigs are taken to the market alive. A mat of straw is used as a cushion for the pig. He is bound firmly to it, his forelegs stretched out before him and his hind legs behind. When he has been made secure to the mat, the entire burden is placed upon the head of the woman who balances it there very carefully.

When the goat, sheep or pig to be disposed of is too big for even these women to carry on the head, it is slung on a pole and carried by two women. But one never sees an animal driven to the market on its own legs. For some unknown reason this practice seems to be tabooed.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE D'ALROY

ON "SPEAKING OF THE WIFE"

SOME MEN love their Wives and TALK about it,
(This sounds great, maybe!)
SOME LOVE their wives and
KEEP IT TO THEMSELVES.
(This MAY BE sound.)
SOME MEN are devoted,
Yet never TELL THEIR WIVES
(This is cheating
Her of REAL pleasure.)
SOME MEN don't love
Their wives and SAY SO
OUTSIDE, yet kid the Lady AT HOME.
Others, INDIFFERENT ALSO,
INFORM the lady of the House, yet never mention
It OUTSIDE.
When MEN TALK about
Their wives, OTHER
Women SHOULD listen
Intently, but most Of them DON'T WANT TO.
A woman RESENTS a man
PRAISING his wife too
Much, yet she RESENTS
Him RUNNING HER down.
A MAN'S WIFE may be FOOD for THOUGHT, but
She is seldom STIMULATING
As a topic of conversation.

MOUNTAIN OF LOVE DISCOVERED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

EVERY once in a while archeologists, delving in the dry dust of antiquity, bring forth something appealingly human.

Such was the case in a recent find in one of the most desolate spots in the Sahara desert.

On a barren, brownstone cliff, overlooking the dry bed of a river, French-American explorers discovered the "Mountain of Love."

The high cliff and the caves in it were covered with inscriptions written in a strange language closely related to the ancient Libyan.

Each inscription was a love letter and the cliff seems to have been the trysting place for the youths and maidens of the little-known race.

On the edge of the cliff outlines of feet—a small one beside a larger one, evidently one representing the woman and the other the man—were scratched.

Under each was inscribed the name of the owner.

Thus courtship and betrothal took place in an ancient day.

The inscriptions, of great age, were covered by a layer of crumbled rock.

It is curious that out of the vast waste of consuming desert sand and the passing of thousands of eroding years, these comparatively trivial declarations of love by unknown maidens and youths of a forgotten people should come to light.

The glory of the kings who ruled over them is gone, the wisdom of the sages who taught them has disappeared, and only the record of simple love remains.

Such inscriptions as "I Beltaim proclaim love for Lili," have outlived "the boast of heraldry, the pomp of power, and all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave."

In an old English ballad there is found the refrain:

"Love me little, love me long,
Is the burden of my song."

This is the test of true love. It is the test of time.

True love endures.

"Those never loved
Who dream that they loved once," is the way Mrs. Browning expresses it in one of her poems.

The Mountain of Love, outliving all other traces of a race that is gone, in its endurance is perhaps symbolical of this distinguishing characteristic of true love.

WHY THE SUN CAN'T STEAL THE MOON

By Garrett P. Serviss

A READER in California asks for some kind of experimental model by which he may be able to represent to himself the inability of the sun to pull the moon away from the earth, as he is not fully satisfied with the verbal explanation which I gave in a recent article.

I am very willing to help, as far as I can, in getting around the mathematical difficulties that hedge every subject of which the famous "problem of three bodies" constitutes the basis, and so I offer the following experimental illustration, not, be it noted, as a real solution, but only as a partial analogy that may serve to clarify the statement that the sun is unable to take the moon away because he has to take the earth along with it, the separating force that he is able to exercise being measured only by the difference between his attraction at the same time on the earth.

Sun Pulls It

Let us represent the sun's gravitation by a rubber cord, immovably attached at one end while the sun pulls upon it from the other end. Let the earth and the moon be fastened upon the cord, not far apart.

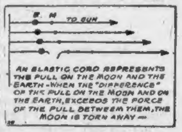
Now, starting from the upper line of the figure as a basis, let the pull of the sun be increased, as indicated in the second line by the lengthening of the cord. The cord will stretch between the moon and the earth, and they will be separated; but the separation will be very slight because the stretching of the cord back of the earth will be nearly the same in amount as between the earth and the moon. In the third line, where the pull has again increased, we see that a similar effect results; there is a slight separation, but still the earth follows the moon and the tie between them is unbroken.

In the fourth line the pull is supposed to have increased to such a degree that the difference between the amount of the sun's attraction upon the moon and its attraction upon the earth exceeds the attraction between the earth and the moon, whereupon the cord breaks and the moon is set free from the earth. Strictly speaking, the elastic cord would not behave exactly in that way.

But some reader may think that the illustration does not represent the way the sun pulls the earth and the moon, anyhow, because it fails to take account of the revolution around the sun. What the illustration shows, however, is only the situation at a given instant. If you wish to include the revolution of the earth and moon together around the sun, attach the two to an elastic cord, one end of which you hold in your hand while the other end is free.

Question of Speed

Then swing the cord around like a sling. Your hand will represent the sun. The faster you make the earth and moon revolve with the cord, the more the latter will stretch. But, just as happens when the cord is firmly attached at the further end from the sun, we may regard the separation between the moon and the earth as proportional to the difference between the pull upon the moon and the simultaneous pull upon the earth.



E
TO SUN
AN ELASTIC CORD REPRESENTS THE PULL ON THE MOON AND THE EARTH - WHEN THE "DIFFERENCE" OF THE PULL ON THE MOON AND ON THE EARTH, EXCEEDS THE FORCE OF THE PULL BETWEEN THEM, THE MOON IS TORN AWAY —

The interplay of the attractions of the sun and the earth upon the circling moon is intensely interesting, but it would require more space than I have at command to describe it. The writers of some of the old text books on astronomy seem to have put more god-speed into their methods of instruction than many of their successors. If you can get hold of a good old Elias Loomis's "Treatise on Astronomy" you will see how neatly he illuminated this subject.

WHEN A GIRL HAS HER DAD FOR A FRIEND AND PAL

Before she left for New York to take a position, a father said to his daughter: "Remember, daughter, that your old dad is your best pal. If your money runs short, if you lose your position, if ever you are placed in circumstances where you need someone at once at your side, send for Dad—he'll come.

"Don't do anything of which you might be ashamed to curry favor; don't permit any man to take liberties with you because you want to stay in his employ.

"You don't have to have a job in order to live—not while your father lives and you can come home. I want you to come home if you can't support yourself honestly."

Too many girls are so anxious to see and do things in the city which are more expensive than they can afford that they accept invitations which lead them into trouble.

But the girl whose Dad is her pal is not so easily led into wrong.

She knows that she can be independent and does not have to risk her reputation in order to please those who are trying to take advantage of her.

She need not submit to indignities in order to keep a pay envelope coming.
